Governor Pinchot Says This Administration Will Be Dry

REPEATS HIS ATTACK ON UTILITIES TODAY

Pinchot Declares Primary Allegiance Is Due To The Plain People

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Fifteenth Pinchot, outspoken foe of public utility combines, pronounced "dry" and already mentioned as a factor to be reckoned with in 1932 presidential prognostications, reiterated and re-amplified the issues of the 1930 gubernatorial campaign upon assuming the controlling reins as Pennsylvania's forty-fourth governor today. Standing on the soil of the state noted as the "birthplace of the nation," Pinchot climaxed his inaugural oath with a slashing exhortation of political chicanery, flayed public utilities for their political activities, reaffirmed his personal and political faith in the Eighteenth Amendment, and declared the country's greatest need to be the solution of the unemployment problem.

Complete text of Governor Pinchot's inaugural address delivered this afternoon at the state capitol is presented on page 14 of this issue.

Although considerable conjecture had been manifested as to how Pinchot would deal with the ticklish question of prohibition, the incoming executive disposed of the matter in terse, succinct, typically Pinchot fashion.

Administration Dry
"It is well known not only that I believe in obeying and enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment because it is the law, but that I am a convinced supporter of the amendment itself," Pinchot said. He hammered his observation home with the definite warning:

"This administration will be dry." The salient feature of the inaugural address, however, was Pinchot's attack on the public utilities. In concise, biting phrases, he accused the utilities of attempting to nullify popular government in every state in the Union.

"Here in Pennsylvania," Pinchot said, "A carefully planned, elaborate scheme is being carried out to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

1. The commission is opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

2. The commission is opposed to the restoration in any manner of the legalized saloon.

3. The commission is opposed to the federal or state governments, as such, going into the liquor business.

4. The commission is opposed to the proposal to modify the national prohibition act so as to permit manufacture and sale of light wines or beer.

5. The commission is of opinion that the cooperation of the states is an essential element in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the prohibition act throughout the territory of the United States; that the support of public opinion in the several states is necessary in order to insure such cooperation.

6. The commission is of opinion that prior to the enactment of the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, the bureau for enforcement were badly organized and inadequate; that subsequent to that enactment there has been continued improvement in organization and effort for enforcement.

7. The commission is of opinion that there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement.

8. The commission is of opinion that the present organization for enforcement is still inadequate.

Law Enforcement Commission Report Is Against Repeal; And Against Modification

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The conclusions and recommendations of the national commission on law enforcement and law observance with regard to prohibition, and signed by the eleven members, followed:

1. The commission is opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.
2. The commission is opposed to the restoration in any manner of the legalized saloon.
3. The commission is opposed to the federal or state governments, as such, going into the liquor business.
4. The commission is opposed to the proposal to modify the national prohibition act so as to permit manufacture and sale of light wines or beer.
5. The commission is of opinion that the cooperation of the states is an essential element in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the prohibition act throughout the territory of the United States; that the support of public opinion in the several states is necessary in order to insure such cooperation.
6. The commission is of opinion that prior to the enactment of the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, the bureau for enforcement were badly organized and inadequate; that subsequent to that enactment there has been continued improvement in organization and effort for enforcement.
7. The commission is of opinion that there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement.
8. The commission is of opinion that the present organization for enforcement is still inadequate.
9. The commission is of opinion that the federal appropriations for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment should be substantially increased and that the vigorous and better organized efforts which have gone on since the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, should be furthered by certain improvements in the statutes and in the organized, personnel, and equipment of enforcement, so as to give to enforcement the greatest practicable efficiency.

10. Some of the commission are not convinced that prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment is unenforceable and believe that a further trial should be made with the help of the recommended improvements, and that if after such trial effective enforcement is not secured there should be a revision of the amendment. Others of the commission are convinced that it has been demonstrated that prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment is unenforceable and that the amendment should be immediately revised, but recognizing that the process of amendment will require some time. They unite in the recommendations of conclusion No. 9 for the improvement of the enforcement agencies.

11. All the commission agree that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows:

- Section 1. The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverages purposes.
- Some Recommendations
12. The recommendations referred to in conclusion number 9 are:
1. Removal of the causes of irritation and resentment on the part of the medical profession by:
  - (a) Doing away with the statutory fixing of the amount which may be prescribed and the number of prescriptions.
  - (b) Abolition of the requirement of peccifying the ailment for which liquor is prescribed upon a blank to go into the public files;
  - (c) Leaving as much as possible to

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President Hoover does not approve the Wickersham prohibition report in its entirety, although he considers it a valuable contribution to the whole field of prohibition discussion.

Specifically, Mr. Hoover approves the recommendation of a majority of the commission against the repeal of the 13th amendment, but he "sees serious objections" to the alternative amendment which the commission proposed, which would have the effect of throwing the whole problem of liquor control back into the hands of Congress.

Efforts Being Made To Cap Wild Oil Gusher In Oklahoma City

(International News Service)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Efforts were made today to cap an oil gusher which blew out of control about a mile from the heart of the city's business district, creating a menacing fire hazard. It was expected that the well would be capped some time during the day.

While workmen strove to stem the flow of oil, all available firemen and a detachment of state militia patrolled the vicinity of the well. Large quantities of fire extinguishing chemicals were on hand in the event flames should break out.

All homes, factories and other buildings in the area were vacated, and railroads operating near the well suspended service.

The well was the No. 1 Wapaco on the T. D. Block estate although not as powerful as the Morgan well which imperiled the city last November, it is the closest to the business district of any well in the local field.

Elks' National Ruler To Come Here March 24

Grand Exalted Ruler Rupp, Of Allentown, To Come As Guest

TO INDUCT CLASS ON DAY OF VISIT

Grand Exalted Ruler Lawrence Rupp of Allentown, head of the supreme grand lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, will pay New Castle a personal visit on March 24 to conduct a district lodge class for Elks from all over the northwestern section of the state.

His coming, first anticipated by local leaders a short time ago, was not definitely assured until lodge representatives from here conferred with him at Warren, O., Monday. He told them he would welcome an opportunity to come here on the designated day.

Met Him Monday.
Past District Grand Exalted Ruler Walter C. DeArment and Past Exalted Ruler C. W. Herman Hess, speaking for the New Castle lodge, formally extended him the invitation to visit the city. State President John F. Nugent of Bradock, close friend of the local men, also took part in the conference.

The Warren festivities, including a dinner at noon and an afternoon speaking program, was held in the grand exalted ruler's honor. Leading public officials and men prominent in Elks circles were among the 400 persons present.

The New Castle affair in March will have a district aspect inasmuch as the program will include all of the lodges of the northwestern district of the state, as well as others. Heading the general committee on arrangements is Larry D. Gent, leading B. P. O. E. officer at Franklin. He will name a committee to assist him with the plans.

Travels Continually.
It is understood that the national chief will so arrange his visit here that a call on two other districts will be possible the same time he calls here. It is known that he will go to Pittsburgh the day after he is entertained locally.

The grand exalted ruler's home is in Allentown, Pa., and being a resident of the state makes it all the more easier for him to come here. His official travels, however, take him into every state of the union.

With the local party at Warren were A. J. Gerard, Pittsburgh, president of the Southwest District Elks' association, and J. G. Bohlender, Franklin lodge man. Others who had expected to be present could not attend.

New Castle's popularity for entertaining men of national repute, leaders of some of the largest organizations in the land, rises to a higher notch with the announcement of Mr. Rupp's coming. National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil of the American Legion comes as a guest of legionnaires on March 12.

The town banker, Dufoth Jere, decided to build a house. Jere had designs and specifications drawn up by the leading architect in a neighboring city and soon called upon Abe Stinkle, the contractor of his town, to make a bid on the construction. A bargain was soon struck and a contract was made by which Stinkle agreed to build the house according to specifications, and Jere agreed to make payment therefor in four equal sums promptly as the work was completed and upon presentation of a certificate from the architect stating that the work had been done in accordance with the specifications.

The first, second and third payments were made. But when the time for the last payment came the architect refused to give Stinkle a certificate, and he would give no reason for the refusal. Stinkle sued.

Getting married in Germany is a matter not easily accomplished when one of the contracting parties is an American citizen, as has been learned by August Ulrich, proprietor of the Danish Pastry shop on North Mill street. Mr. Ulrich left New Castle about the middle of December, expecting to be married to Rosa Meisser in Germany on December 31. When he arrived in Germany it was found so many diplomatic strings had to be pulled and so much red tape gone through that the marriage was postponed until January 7, and whether it was consummated on this date or not has not been learned yet. Then after the marriage there will be the question of passports and whether or not she can come in Germany's quota, and what have you. Mr. Ulrich will soon begin to wonder if it is worth the effort.

POLICIES OF ADMINISTRATION ARE PRESENTED

ately financed, and powerfully directed attack upon the rule of the people under the law has made substantial progress. It aims to substitute government by the public utilities for government by the people. It is not confined to Pennsylvania. Not a single state in the Union is free from a similar attempt.

"The 'tail forester' characterized as 'everlastingly wrong' those who find it 'politically fashionable to doubt and flout the capacity of the people to govern themselves.'"

Referring to the American system of popular government, he said: "With all my heart and soul I believe in it. With all the power I have, I shall defend it."

Not Pennsylvanians
A chord of mystery was wound by Pinchot in his attack on the utilities when he declared that "with few exceptions, the men who would thus transfer the government of this commonwealth to great special interests are not Pennsylvanians."

"Their seat of power is another state," Pinchot continued. (He did not name the state) "and their effort to control the affairs of this commonwealth is part of the wider attempt of the same men to control the nation."

"I deny the right of this invisible government to exist in free America."

Turning to the affairs of the state proper, Pinchot declared his administration would seek to relieve the farmers of excessive taxation and would endeavor to provide good roads. He promised to lay before the General Assembly a "practical and workable" plan to transfer from the farmers in the townships to the commonwealth the responsibility and cost of maintaining the state's rural roads. The Pinchot administration, he said, will keep the expenses of the commonwealth strictly within its income.

Easy access to the executive office for Pennsylvania citizens seeking information as to the progress of public business was promised by the newly-inaugured governor.

"It should be easy for the people to see their governor," Pinchot said. "Therefore, the sign, 'Governor's Office—Walk Right In' which was displayed during my first term on certain days will appear again, and the door will be open to all who choose to come."

Pinchot declared his primary allegiance is due to the "plain people—the men, the women, and the children—whose servant I am, whose mandate I hold, and whose interests I represent."

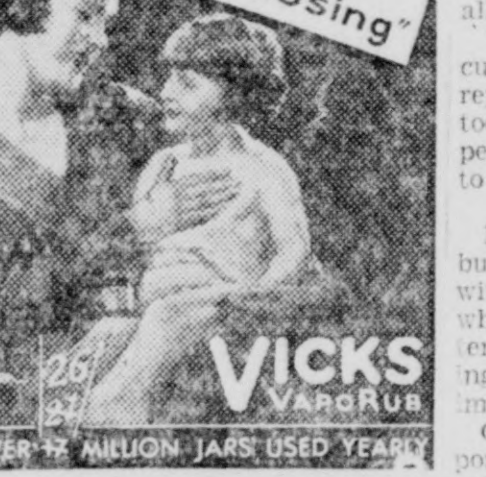

"I approach my second term with firm reliance upon the Almighty, with clear purpose to do the right. God gives me to see the right, with a deep and humble sense of my responsibility, and with heartfelt gratitude to my fellow citizens."

Officers Criswell and Showalter last night found the car of Robert C. Cage, 1309 East Washington street, parked on the public square and bearing 1930 license plates. ## STAR LORE

MIGRATION OF STARS ON THE CELESTIAL SPHERE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
The stars appear to be at rest, but refined instruments show many of them to be in motion across the celestial sphere with a velocity comparable to that of the velocity of the earth around the sun which is 18 1/2 miles per hour. That motion is not noticeable because the stars are so far away. This motion across the celestial sphere is known as the star's proper motion. Bernard discovered a star of the tenth magnitude that has a proper motion of 10.25 seconds of arc per year. To illustrate this proper motion: The sun has an apparent diameter of half a degree. Ten seconds would be 1-180 of the sun's apparent diameter.

COMMISSION IS NOT UNANIMOUS ON PROHIBITION

grave doubt whether it ever can be adequately enforced.

Against Repeal.
It is recommended against repeal of the 18th Amendment—yet six of the 11 members of the commission, a majority, revealed themselves individually to be in favor of either outright repeal or revision of the amendment.

It recommended against any scheme of having either the federal government or the individual states "go in the liquor business" as has been done in Canada—yet the same majority individually recommended a modified Swedish plan of liquor control which would have the national and state governments supervise and regulate the sale of liquor on the card system.

It recommended greater appropriations, more federal agents, and more equipment with which to try to enforce the existing set-up which a majority of the members individually consider unenforceable.

These are only a few of the many curious anomalies contained in the report of nearly 100,000 words which took a year and a half and the expenditure of half a million dollars to compile.

Hoover Transmits Report.
President Hoover transmitted the bulky document to congress today with a brief covering letter. A somewhat bewildered but very much interested congress received it. Nothing, of course, will be done with it immediately.

Other principal features of the report were:

1. The commission opposed all proposals to modify the Volstead law to permit beers and light wines on the ground such action would be ineffectual in reaching the root of the problem.
2. The commission opposed the return of the saloon in any form.
3. It recommends that all restrictions upon the issuance of prescriptions by physicians be forthwith abolished.
4. It hit the rapidly growing grape concentrate business by recommending that the anomalous provisions of Section 29 of the Volstead Act be removed, in order to put wine-making and beer-making in the home on the same basis. Under the present interpretation of the law it is legal to make wine in the home, but illegal to make beer.
5. Three members of the commission, Judge Wm. S. Kenyon, Judge Paul J. McCormick, and Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard law school, suggested the desirability of submitting the repeal of the amendment to state constitutional conventions elected to consider the subject.
6. Two members of the commission, Newton D. Baker, ex-secretary of war, and Monte H. Lemann, law professor at Tulane university, recommended outright repeal of the 18th Amendment.

7. Four members of the commission, Henry W. Anderson, Virginia lawyer; Ada L. Comstock, Dean of Radcliffe college, the only woman member; Frank J. Loesch, Chicago lawyer, and Dean Pound, proposed revision of the amendment so as to throw the whole question back upon congress for determination.

Favor Further Trial.
8. Five members of the commission, Judges Wm. I. Grubb of Alabama, Kenyon, McIntosh, McCormick and Chairman Wickersham himself, recommended "further trial" of the existing prohibition set-up under the reforms and improvements instituted during the past two years. The commission agreed that if material improvement is not forthcoming after "a fair trial" then serious attention be given to revision of the amendment.

9. All of the members were of the opinion that the amendment should be repealed or revised rather than to permit it to sink into a state of nullification such as has happened in the case of the 14th and 15th amendments.

10. All were agreed, too, that prohibition cannot be enforced without the active cooperation of the states, and without a great deal more public support than has hitherto been given to it.

The commission went so far as to propose a sample amendment if and when it becomes advisable to knock out the existing 18th Amendment.

"All the commission agreed," said the report, "that if the amendment is revised it should be made read substantially as follows:

Suggest Proposal Substitute.
"Section 1. The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

The practical effect of such a substitute would be to throw the whole question back into the direct control of congress. Thus if a dry congress elected to keep the country dry it could do so by legislative enactment; conversely, if a wet congress decided to permit the sale of liquor under strict government supervision and regulation it could also do so by mere legislative enactment.

The principal advantage to this scheme, as stressed by its endorers, would be to remove a police statute from the constitution, and afford a flexibility of control of the liquor question that would always reflect public opinion.

Under the proposed amendment congress would have full power (1) to continue the present system of absolute national prohibition, or (2) to remit the matter in whole or in part to the states, or (3) to adopt any system of effective control. Since greater flexibility is one of the outstanding needs of the present system, this modification should be made even if the policy of absolute national prohibition is to be continued."

Voluntarism Report.
The commission's report consisted of twelve parts—the main body which presented the recommendations and an appalling picture of present day conditions, which was followed by the views of the eleven members (all with reservations) and then eleven individual statements reflecting the views of the various members.

The only member who refrained from signing the report was Monte H. Lemann, the Tulane university law professor. An inquiry at commission headquarters as to why Prof. Lemann withheld his signature brought only the tart rejoinder, "you had better ask Prof. Lemann."

The individual statements varied greatly in length and substance. They ranged all the way from Ada L. Comstock's 150 words stating she favored "an immediate attempt" to change the constitution to Judge Kenyon's 15,000 words extolling the merits of national prohibition, and explaining why he favored "a further trial" before resorting to attempts to change the laws.

Prohibition Beneficial.
Dealing with the subject of prohibition in its broadest sense, the commission found it has in many respects been of enormous benefit to the country. Economically and socially the country has prospered. There has been increased production industrially, savings accounts have increased materially, and demands upon charitable agencies have been reduced under prohibition. These benefits, the commission said, should be preserved.

But there is another side of the picture to which the commission devoted page after page of its report, telling of the enormous increase in crime, in bribery and corruption of public officers, of congested courts, of overflowing prisons, of indiscriminate killings by federal agents, of lawless practices by police and enforcement agents of disrespect for all law that has followed disrespect and violation of the prohibition law.

Stubborn Coughs
Ended by Recipe,
Mixed at Home
Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for the same times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and ease the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, dissolving the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germy laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

REPORT OF WICKERSHAM COMMISSION FAVORS DRY
LONG awaited report of the national commission on law enforcement and law observance was presented to President Herbert Hoover by the chairman of the commission, George W. Wickersham, yesterday. After perusal the president was to transmit it to congress for consideration today.

The report is a voluminous one, in which the commission appointed a year and a half ago went into exhaustive details concerning crime and law observance. Particularly is the nation interested in the conclusion that have been made by the commission with regard to prohibition.

There will be scant satisfaction in this part of the report for those who have been expecting the commission to add a new impetus to the propaganda for the repeal of the dry amendment. Ten of the eleven members of the commission sign a report in which it is stated that the commission is opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The commission is also opposed to the restoration of the legalized saloon in any manner, and also opposed to the federal or state governments going into the liquor business, likewise opposed to any proposal to modify the national prohibition act so as to permit manufacture and of light wines or beer.

It is on the matter of enforcement that the commission has much to say. Briefly, the commission asserts that there has as yet been no adequate enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, and no adequate observance. Likewise the commission is convinced that it is necessary to have public opinion with enforcement in several states in order to get effective enforcement. The agencies for enforcement of the dry law are inadequate. The commission is not a unit on what methods should be used to bring about greater enforcement, and some express the opinion that the amendment is unenforceable and believe that it should be revised.

Certain it is that one result of the report is that the argument over the eighteenth amendment has been forcefully revived and will be heard in congress from this time forth for many a day. It should however, add emphatically to the morale of the dry law supporters, and at the same time open their eyes to the fact that much work yet remains to be done before we will, in fact, have national prohibition.

It is the candid opinion of even the most ardent dries that there is a great deal to be done in most states before there will be effective enforcement or observance of the eighteenth amendment. But, repeal or modification of the national prohibition amendment is not the solution for the problem.

Taken all in all, the report of the Wickersham commission, as far as it touches upon prohibition should bring cheer to those millions of Americans who believe that prohibition is right and that it will eventually win out satisfactorily.

DOING OWN PRESS-AGENTING

Niagara Falls, one of the wonders of the world has broken out with a little press agenting of its own.

Certain it is that the falls will be visited with renewed interest by thousands in the weeks and months that are to come this year, and in the years to follow, as a result of the fact that thousands of tons of rock fell from the American Falls into the chasm below, on Sunday night. The slide is said to have been the largest since the falls were discovered and was of such dimensions that the contour of the falls is somewhat altered.

Old Niagara Falls could not have done a better bit of advertising, and we would hazard a guess that the folks that sell souvenirs and what nots around the city of Niagara Falls are not in the least downcast over the development.

Whether the fall of rock will have any further effect on the scenic wonder cannot be determined as yet, but the boost that has been given to tourist business will be epochal, we would surmise.

WHAT IS YOUR POSITION?

The man who does most for his home city is not always the man who receives the most credit. There are many true boosters who not only do not permit the opportunity to pass to say a good word or do some act for the betterment of their town, but create opportunities to do so. They are citizens of whom everyone is proud. Frequently the situation is created whereby some other good citizen who has not done so much work will reap the benefit. But the constructive booster is not jealous when others are given credit. He gains his reward in the consciousness of accomplishment.

Because one does nothing affirmatively or negatively does not clear him of the suspicion of impeding progress. Not to take an affirmative position in matters of interest to the city—and there are always matters of interest—places one on the negative side. There is no way in which to remain neutral, for if that position is attempted there will necessarily be many who will construe it negatively, and with the construction goes the influence.

Be a real, constructive booster, and let your position be so certain that those who run may read.

There may not be a map of the road to success, as a paragrapher remarks, but there is a fairly well blazed trail for those who care to follow it.

Here's hopin' that no matter what's happened to th' others, your New Year's resolve 't take more care at crossin's is still bring 'em keen from constant use.

THE OLD FOLK FOOL US

I've seen it happen dozens of times.
Something saddening is happening in a family—and half the energy in the home is spent in keeping the news from some old man or old woman. Somebody has lost all his money. Somebody has been arrested and may be sent to prison. Somebody is terribly ill and close to the door of death. Or somebody is dead and they don't want Grandmother or Grandfather to know just yet.

"It would be too great a shock," people whisper, "and you know Mother has a weak heart." Or they say, "He was Father's favorite grandson. Father couldn't stand it. He's had so much trouble in his life that this would be the last straw."

Well, the young folks don't know as much as they think they know. They are young, so they think they are strong. They live with the old folk, but they don't know them very well. They think the old men and women are "just hanging on by a thread," just barely clinging to life. And they DON'T know the iron resolution that is in many an old heart, the philosophy, the understanding of the materials of living. The Old Folk fool them.

I've seen old men and women take blows that knock over the proud young men and women and reduce them to helpless weakness. I've seen an old woman hear of the death of a beloved child with only a faint quiver of her mouth—and then I've seen her set her chin and go to work. I've seen an old man take a bitter pill from life with just a sad shake of his head.

They've lived long enough to know that tears do not help that grief must be accepted, that men and women must go on their ways without cringing and whining; they have learned to be strong and they don't want protection from the young folk.

They fool you with their wisdom and their strength, and they make you feel like a fearful child who has lost his way and needs the guidance of those Old Folk who know the path through life.

The Old Folk fool us and I'm glad that they do. They've learned how to Stick It Out—and they could give the rest of us lessons in living.

DOC'S FIRST QUERY

When comes my doctor unto me In answer to my pleading,
To give that balm for agony Which I am sorely needing,
When he has put his coat away And made his formal greeting,
He'll look at me and sternly say: "Well, what have you been eating?"

As like a timid child I rise To tell my tale of anguish,
How spots are thick before my eyes As I in fever languish,
He shakes his wise old head and gray At all that I'm repeating,
Then to the good wife turns to say: "Well, what has he been eating?"

Is there no other source of pain Than pie and cake and cheese,
Then pie and cake and cheese, Do I from red roast beef obtain
Whatever my disease is? Is there no way in innocence,
Of stray ballad meeting That always he must thus commence:

"Well, what have you been eating?" If to that far off Heaven shore My doctor gains admittance,
And standing at the pearly door I find him waiting for me,
I'll wager as I step inside Where angel wings are beating, He'll say to me: "And so you died! Well, what had you been eating?" (Copyright, 1931, Edgar A. Guest)

One shudders to think of the dreadful possibility of great air armadas crossing seas and continents, in war, to scatter devastation and death over wide areas," declares the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, adding that "one becomes more enthusiastic and more profoundly thrilled to contemplate the peaceful conquests of the air in the future."

The LEXINGTON LEADER avers that "there can be no question but that in a year or two, Europe and South America, by way of Africa, will be linked up by regular service, mail, express and passenger, and it is equally certain that the United States and Europe will be united in the same way."

"If fleets of planes can navigate an ocean, then oceans are no barrier against the attacks of air power in case of war," argues the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, while the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC states: "Gen. Balbo, who organized the armada and led the flight, has strengthened his popularity with the Italian people immeasurably. Now he is talked of as Mussolini's successor when 11 Duce dies or retires."

The PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL asks: "At what distance is a nation to be safe from attack by air in the event of another war?" and holds that "the flight certainly means that the warfare of the future, if it is to be, will be dominated from the air."

"We would like," remarks the UNIONTOWN MORNING HERALD, "to regard the Italian aerial demonstration for which all our credit is extended—as an exhibition purely of good will and commercial effort. But it was largely military insofar as the Fascist show was staged. The air minister was in command; the planes were huge military planes not unlike our great bombers; the ships have been sold to the Brazilian government. And Italy has been doing not a little sabre rattling along its frontiers."

Recognizing "the general stimulation of aeronautics throughout the world," the DES MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITAL says of the effects of the feat: "Splendid advertising for Italy, to the advantage both of her political and her commercial prestige in South America. 2. Demonstration, for all the world to see that military aircraft can operate as a powerful fleet under the most favorable conditions, at great distance from base, even across an ocean. The range of air fleets has been tremendously extended. 3. A building up of the Italian government's prestige, which means Mussolini's another peak in Italy. Such a thrilling national accomplishment is second only to an easy and successful war in popularizing a dictator."

"The flight is not lacking in heroism," observes the HARTFORD COURANT, "but the thrilling effect upon the world has been quite wiped out by the disclosure that the government of Italy purposely withheld the news that, during the course of the flight, two of the planes fell and men lost their lives." "The authorities could scarcely have expected to keep the news permanently secret, and they must realize now that they have put the flight under a shadow."

Commercial and military possibilities are both emphasized in the comment of the Atlantic City News on the crossing of the Atlantic by an Italian fleet of seaplanes from the coast of Africa to Brazil. While it is observed that there were casualties along the way, the achievement is noted as another advance in aviation in the direction of mass movement.

"It is the first dramatic mass movement, and its success is nothing short of brilliant," proclaims the SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS with the conclusion that "while mishaps to some of the planes have slightly held the others back, the fact that the expedition as a whole met with such good fortune must be reckoned as altogether marvelous." It is described by the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS as "the greatest squadron flight in history, though 'the south Atlantic has been spanned nine times,' and 'three important long-distance squadron flights have preceded this last enterprise.'"

"It was altogether an impressive achievement," says the ALBANY EVENING NEWS, "and some may predict that in the future, if America should be at war, squadrons of planes could fly across the ocean and attack the coast or even proceed inland. That is not impossible of course and if there were a war, planes would play a very important part. As yet, however, this is only one instance and the planes were subject to delays. The start was made December 17 from Italy. Fourteen planes started from Italy and 12 from Portuguese West Africa and two arrived on this side of the ocean. While this was a great feat it does not make certain the movement of great fleets of planes over the ocean."

"A step farther in establishing the reliability of modern planes" is seen by the MIAMI DAILY NEWS, "for the formation flight, with its unequalled record, has demonstrated a standardized excellence comparable to the records of the individual super planes of the past."

"The group flight by the Italians," according to the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, "shows how practical is the air passage of the Atlantic in mass as well as by single plane, that is to say, it shows that the plane, by multiplication, has considerable carrying capacity at one flight." The Evening Post also comments: "It gives a striking illustration of the possibilities of the seaplane for this service as compared with the land plane. And it emphasizes what has already been remarked, that the course for such flights lies farther to the south than that which has been so frequently and so often disastrously essayed by adventurous aviators."

"Secretary of the Navy Adams" thinks the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "is moderate in saying that the expedition, under the personal command of Gen. Italo Balbo, Fascist air minister, is 'another distinct step in the advance of aviation.' Perhaps the future of long-distance passenger air traffic lies in travel by plane squadron rather than in individual ships or large carrying capacity. In any event, the Italians' thrilling exploit opens up yet another vista in the unimagination possibilities of air transport. It is genuine pioneering stuff."

"One shudders to think of the dreadful possibility of great air armadas crossing seas and continents, in war, to scatter devastation and death over wide areas," declares the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, adding that "one becomes more enthusiastic and more profoundly thrilled to contemplate the peaceful conquests of the air in the future."

Governor Fisher Retires Today

Leaves Office As Chief Executive After Long Public Service

ADMINISTRATION IS COMMEDED

By H. E. MYERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—At the stroke of noon today, Gov. John S. Fisher stepped back into private life as plain Mr. John S. Fisher, of Indiana, Pa., and completed a long cycle of public service which carried him from an Indiana county farm to the executive chair of the commonwealth he has served in many capacities.

County committeeman, county chairman of his party, delegate to state and national Republican conventions, State Senator, secretary of banking, John S. Fisher has been all of these. But always, according to those close to him, he had his hopes centered on the executive chair in the Capitol, and when he had neared the age of 60, the accolade was conferred upon him.

If the retiring governor has hopes of further political honors, his associates say, he has never indicated it during his term of office. When he became governor he asserted all his energies would be bent on doing a "good job" and no deviation from that course has been noticed by his political associates of the past four years.

Making friends has always been a characteristic of the outgoing governor. It was so in 1923, when his backers urged him to enter the fight for the nomination for governor. Other groups were backing George E. Alter, and then Gifford Pinchot, who succeeded Gov. Fisher today, entered the lists as an independent candidate. On the eve of the primary, Fisher withdrew from the campaign, urging his supporters to support Pinchot.

Four years later, his strength had grown and he again became a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. He was opposed by the late Edward E. Beidleman, Dauphin county leader, who had been lieutenant-governor under the late Gov. William C. Sproul, under whom Fisher served as secretary of banking.

The fight for the nomination was close. The final result, which gave Fisher the victory, did not come until two days after the primary election. When it came, the supporters of Beidleman were convinced they had lost, but in losing, one of them applied to the retiring governor a description which he carries unimpaired.

"We lost," the Beidleman supporter said. "But we lost to John Fisher, and he is a kindly, considerate and courteous gentleman."

That the outgoing executive made political enemies while in office is not denied. When he was nominated and elected governor, one of his warmest supporters was Joseph R. Grundy, Bristol manufacturer. In 1929, when the U. S. Senate refused to seat Senator-elect W. S. Vare, Fisher named Grundy to fill the unexpired term, and the action was taken as another link in the chain of friendship that existed between the men.

Yet, less than four months later they broke. Grundy had picked Samuel S. Lewis, of York, to succeed to the executive chair. Fisher refused to join the plan and promised to muster all the strength he could against Lewis. Lewis withdrew as a candidate and Grundy supported the candidacy of Gifford Pinchot, with whom he had differed during the former's first term.

The Grundy-Fisher break was one of the most marked disagreements of the Fisher administration.

Though he is proud of the administration of state affairs under his leadership, the retiring governor takes most pride in the building of roads and the execution of an unprecedented construction program of state-owned institutions during his four years in office. Always interested in improvement of highways, he was anxious that new records in construction be set during his term of office.

Twice he faced the legislature with requests for increases in gasoline tax and once with proposed higher rates for automobile operator's licenses. Despite opposition, the revenue raising measures were forced through the assembly and increased receipts which flowed into the motor fund permitted rapid expansion of the state road building program.

At the same time a program of improvement and extension of state-owned institutions was inaugurated. He was interested in and worked for the completion of the Capitol Park extension program, and he permitted state institutions to expand to meet growing demands for their services.

Despite unprecedented demands on the state treasury, the governor completed his term with some $30,000,000 left in the state treasury. Even his critics admit he is returning to his home with a constructive record unequalled in many ways in the history of the state.

And all agree that he is leaving office, still the "kindly, considerate, courteous gentleman."

District Having Best Percentage Of Attendance On Thursday To Get Award

A beautiful shield will be presented to the district of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association that has the best percentage of attendance at the mid-year efficiency conference which is to be held at the parlor of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday, January 22nd afternoon session starting at 2:15 and Christian Fellowship Conference dinner at 6:30 in the dining rooms of the Y. W. C. A. For the past three years the Pulaski District has been winning this distinction and they are striving for it again this year. However, three or four other districts are working to win the shield and the contest will be close. There are eight districts comprising the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, as follows: New Castle, Wilmington, Pulaski, Mt. Jackson, Ellwood, Slippery Rock, Plain Grove and Wampum.

The chief speaker at the afternoon session and the Christian Fellowship Conference dinner will be Dr. George W. ## Mission Asks For Money Banks Out

Would Appreciate Efforts Where Contributors Can Return Theirs

Friends of the City Rescue Mission having tin coin banks distributed by mission workers some time ago, as a measure for raising immediate funds, were asked today to have them sent to Mission headquarters, South Mercer street, as soon as it becomes possible to do so. Authorized representatives will receive the cans.

With the collection netting 1,000 cans already and with each can containing on the average of $1 apiece, the drive's success and fruitful climax is practically assured. Hundreds more are now expected to be received.

The cooperation of those who hold the cans is asked inasmuch as additional funds are needed to carry along the regular program of relief work and to apply on the general maintenance fund.

Can't Fool Fifty Year Old Justice

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Jan. 20.—The "starvation" plea of thieves won't get much sympathy in the court of J. F. Israel, 72, justice of the peace here.

Israel began his 50th year as a peace officer of this country Jan. 1. "The average thief brought before me, comes charged with stealing chickens which are sold to buy gasoline, automobile tires and jewelry, and not to purchase food," he maintained.

Israel said that in his 50 years is constable, marshal, deputy sheriff and justice of the peace, he has never seen a real reason for stealing because of weeping wives and starving babies.

They can always get help by applying to the proper place.

Attempt To Steal Mowing Machine

COITTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—An attempt to steal a mowing machine from the R. K. Shields' farm near Coittsville last night was foiled when the thieves, chased by neighbors, cut the machine loose and escaped.

Neighbors of the Shields reported that three boys drove into the farm in an old car, hitched the mower to the rear end and drove away. When the thieves saw they were followed they cut the rope.

The neighbors recognized the boys

Self-Diagnosis Not Good Says State Health Officer

"A few days ago the newspapers gave an account of a young woman who committed suicide because she thought she had cancer. While there was a somewhat reasonable cause for her suspicion, she showed exceedingly poor form in saying the least in taking her case direct to the undertaker instead of to the doctor. Similar instances of self-diagnosis and a flagrant disregard of the physician's function could be given to an almost unlimited extent," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, today.

"It thus appears that some people stay well and thus prevent disease. They decidedly are not written with the idea of giving sufficient education to the laymen to attempt a diagnosis of symptoms. Any person who uses material of this type as a 'doctor book' is skating on the thinnest kind of ice. Such use of articles of this type is nothing less than misuse."

"Everyone should realize that disease manifestations are sometimes strikingly similar in mild and serious conditions. Hence, the development of a worry complex which results in devitalizing the body and sometimes in death, rather than face the supposed cause in a doctor's office is the worst kind of logic imaginable."

"In addition to obeying the fundamental laws of health which include sufficient sleep, proper and habitual exercise, a sensible diet in both quality and quantity, proper daily elimination, and the refusal to become a victim to excesses of any kind, two main pillars should be relied upon to support health and prolong life. The first is the periodic health examination and the second is the practice of consulting your doctor upon the first indication of illness."

"Therefore, if you have any, or imagine that you do, 'pack up your troubles in your old kit bag' and—take them to your doctor! Let him do the worrying, if indeed there is anything about which to worry. Avoid sordid self-diagnosis. Let your physician decide."

Buffalo Herds Roamed In Oregon

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 20.—Conclusive evidence that large herds of buffalo once roamed the valleys and plains of southern Oregon has been uncovered at Malheur Lake where the bleached bones and skulls of the shaggy ruminants are coming to view as lake waters recede.

The presence of so many skeletons together caused investigators to believe that some disease similar to the hoof and mouth malady which raged through the cattle country a few years ago may have been instrumental in wiping out the vast herds before white settlers pioneered the country.

Indian traditions and accounts of early trappers tell of bison in this region.

Penn. Girl Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is dissatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition easily corrected.

Take the experience of Mrs. Gertrude Sees, 216 Roberts Ave., Philadelphia, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Georgianna. She was fretful, feverish, wasn't sleeping right. She was constipated."

"We saw California Fig Syrup advertised and got some. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for three years."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love it. Doctors recommend it to relieve constipation, feverishness, fretfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided; weak bowels and stomach are strengthened.

For your protection, the genuine always bears the name California.

ENTHUSIASM MARKS
INAUGURAL PARADE

Pinchot's Inauguration Parade Not So Colorful, Costs Less Money

Various Organizations Represented In Line Of March Today

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Fewer in number, bearing less colorful trappings, lacking some of the pageantry of inaugural parades of bygone years, but outdone by none in high spirits and enthusiasm, the component units of the parade which will mark Gifford Pinchot's second induction as governor of Pennsylvania gathered early here today for the inaugural.

Today's parade seemed almost sombre. It gave no indication of equalling even that which marked Governor Fisher's inauguration four years ago when a military pageant was spread for the Capital City and the thronging thousands who came here for the event.

But what the 1931 parade lacking in numbers, equipment or adornments was made up in other ways.

Economy Is Watchword. It expressed fully the idea of the incoming chief executive when he ordered that economy be the watchword of the inaugural committee and limited the public expenditure for the ceremony at $3,000.

The military were everywhere in evidence in the early hours, hurrying last minute details of organization.

Brigadier-General David J. Davis, of Scranton, newly appointed adjutant general, as grand marshal of the parade was busy in conference with Major S. M. Livingston, his chief of staff, and other aides.

Capt. Albert Stackpole and his governor's troop of the 104th cavalry were giving last minute inspection to bits and bridle, halters and saddle clothes as they prepared to escort first Lieut. Gov. elect Edward C. Shannon, then Gove. Fisher and governor-elect Pinchot to the capitol for the inauguration ceremonies.

Military Units. Other military units, which included the state staff corps and departments, headquarters company, 55th infantry brigade, and battery A, 107th field artillery, together with their bands, were ready to move to their appointed stations along the line of march.

The civilian units, composed of marching clubs and organizations which supported the governor-elect in his campaigns, were equally busy lining up their members.

As a tribute to the county's thumping plurality for the governor-elect, the Luzern county marching club, of Wilkes-Barre, early prepared to move to the head of the civilian division. Following it were the Schuylkill County Republican club of Ashland; the north-eastern Republican league, of Reading; the Harry B. Scott Republican club of Philadelphia; a delegation from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, of Philadelphia; then the Pinchot Philadelphia headquarters staff and the Pinchot Veterans committee, the junior Pinchot workers, the Pinchot Business Men's club, the James Gallagher marching club and the Samuel D. Schwartz delegation, all from Philadelphia; following were to come the fourth ward Republican club, of Chester, the Perry county delegation of New Bloomfield and the West end Republican club, of Harrisburg.

Two bands, the Jersey Shore high school band and the drum and bugle corps of the Hanover American Legion Post also had places in the line.

The parade will get under way following the inauguration proper and after the newly-sworn governor has traveled over its route in a Victoria.

The march will be the last official ceremony interlinked with Gifford Pinchot's accession to the highest political rank in the Commonwealth—a rank he has borne once before.

Mr. Young's talk, dealing on conservation, will be followed by a display of his bow and arrow skill.

Renola's Counsel
Balks Extradition
Move To New Castle

County Authorities Back Without Youth; Await Decision Of Ohio Judge

Lawrence county authorities who went to Youngstown Monday afternoon returned late the same day without accomplishing the purpose of their visit, which was to bring back Sam Renola alleged third member of the bandit gang that held up the Roux store in New Wilmington, December 13.

Renola, who jumped his bond of $7,500 recently, and was caught by Youngstown police the other day to await the arrival of local authorities, may remain in that city for some time. The authorities who arrived for him Monday waited impatiently while counsel for the young defendant and tried to halt extradition proceedings at a hearing before Judge Moore in Mahoning county court.

Renola had jumped his bond after extradition papers were obtained in Columbus, O. The hearing is required after papers are obtained. Extradition to New Castle will be determined by the decision of the judge.

District Attorney Powers said today he did not know when a decision will be reached by Judge Moore in the case of Renola. It is believed attorneys of both sides will present their briefs today.

Francis Desmond and John Sanders, alias John Sankert, are now being held in Lawrence county jail for participation in the robbery in New Wilmington.

Counsel for the robber suspect intimated to the New Castle men that Renola had really not been apprehended in true fashion, but had given himself up to police, according to a report in the district attorney's office here. Renola, it is reported also, has more than one lawyer to defend him.

County Detective Lee, his assistant, B. J. Rock, and State Policeman Richards made the trip to Youngstown.

By Governor-Elect Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Hauled from its resting place of a score of years, the Victoria in which Governor-elect Pinchot and Gov. Fisher made the trip from the executive mansion to the capitol drew applause from the throngs which packed the route.

The Victoria, first horse-drawn equipage used in an inauguration since Gov. John K. Tener's term in 1911, was the same used when Gov. William S. Stone was inaugurated in 1899.

As proudly as he once mounted guard at the imperial palace at Moscow, Michael Kurlikoff, former Cossack, one time member of the imperial guard under the old czarist regime, guided the gubernatorial Victoria over the parade route.

In full regalia of the coachman of 50 years ago, the ex-Cossack made one of the most striking figures of the parade.

Drawn up in River Park to fire the 17-gun salute which hailed the inauguration of a new governor, Battery "A," 107th field artillery, proved a drawing card for the children. Singly and in close-packed groups, they gathered as close to the battery as state troopers guarding the lines would permit—eager to hear "the cannons shoot."

Veteran watchers of inaugurations took no chances with the weather man. Remembering the bitter cold was then prevailing when Governor Pinchot was first inaugurated, they came with blankets on arms to reinforce overcoat protection.

After an early look at the skies, many added raincoats and umbrellas.

No large increases or decreases were made by the board of revision which held a short session Monday afternoon and which may meet again this afternoon.

One change was made on the Amanda Greer Love two-story brick and frame and brick buildings in North Mercer street. They were assessed at $7,000. In 1927 the assessment was $6,800.

The Harry Lusk house in Edison avenue was changed from $3,610 to $3,330.

It was stated that there were practically no changes in the assessments of persons whose last names commence with "M."

The foot frontage on which land is assessed in Delaware avenue ranges from $12 to $25 and in Highland from $20 to $35.

Two Indiana Men Suffer Injuries In Auto Mishap

Trolley Car In Tyrone Drags Automobile And Injures Occupants

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 20.—When their automobile overturned after being dragged for more than 50 feet by a Tyrone street car, Isaac Noll, 54, and Oliver Longwell, 55, both of Indiana, sustained injuries from which they were recovering today.

Noll was removed to the Altoona hospital with severe lacerations of the right side of the face received in the crash. Longwell, riding with him, was slightly injured and treated at a local dispensary.

Attaches at the hospital said Noll would be permitted to leave within two days as his injuries are not believed to be of a serious nature.

Getting Coal For Labor Of Digging It

AS LAWRENCE COUNTY MEN DIG OWN COAL SUPPLY

Just how extensive are the workings of the New Castle Mining and Clay Products Company, where hundreds of local men have been at work digging their own coal, may be gained from the above scene, which shows the men scattered about the 20-acre workings along the Harlansburg road.

Many of them are invisible in the picture, due to the clouds of smoke hanging over the tract, which comes from the little fires they have made to keep themselves warm. In the foreground, however, they can be easily distinguished as they shovel away from the slate covering the vein of coal.

Well over 5,000 tons have been mined so far, 228 tons being delivered to homes in the district last week. Approximately 15,000 tons remain in the field, enough to last far beyond the balance of the winter, for those who are in need.

Change Place For Paying B. & O. Men

Pay Checks To Be Given Out At Junction Instead Of Ticket Office

A new method of delivery of pay drafts to employees of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will be in practice on the next pay day, January 26, 1931, and from then on permanently unless the new way proves inconvenient.

Instead of employees receiving their pay drafts from the ticket office on South Liberty avenue, they will receive them at the New Castle Junction, according to Agent J. H. Heller. One reason for the change is that the ticket window is blocked so long by employees, inconveniencing others.

The following schedule covering delivery of pay drafts prevail at the New Castle Junction effective January 26, 1931.

Center yard office, 5 a. m. to 6 a. m.; shops, 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m.; supervisor's office, 8 a. m. to 2:30 p. m.; old superintendent office building; shops, 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.; supervisor's office, 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

After 5 p. m. all checks will be turned over to the ticket office for delivery. It will be noted there will be no delivery of pay drafts until after 5 p. m. pay day at New Castle ticket office for shop, yard, road, train and engine service employees.

For the convenience of road, train, and engine arriving or departing from the terminal after 12:01 a. m. on all scheduled pay days, they may receive pay drafts from authorized party at Center Yard office between 12:01 and 5 a. m.

City Planting Trees In Park

Workmen Engaged In Planting Over Dozen Varieties Of Trees In Local Park

In the Spring, when buds appear and bloom, there will be no more beautiful spot than the Seventh Ward public park across Liberty avenue from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad station. The park has always been a pretty one, but the city has decided that there is still room for improvement and that is the reason that several workmen were seen digging on the park grounds Monday afternoon.

Over a dozen baby trees are being planted—maples, oaks, and other varieties. The planting will be completed this week, according to the workmen.

There are already over twenty trees in the park, and with the additional ones, everything will be just about perfect.

Students Clubs Interest Pupils

An interesting feature aside from the routine studies at the Mahoningtown school are the student clubs organized at the commencement of the school year. The clubs have proven of great interest to the pupils and furnish an interest in organization and fellowship that is needed in every school of any size.

There are dramatics, nature, hand-craft and travel clubs, the students having had their choice of membership. Every other Wednesday the clubs meet during the fourth period. Various projects are worked upon and subjects of general interest discussed.

Preparing For School Program

Preparations are being made at the Mahoning school for a program to be presented at the next assembly period, on Thursday, January 29. Indications are that the program will be one of the most interesting of the year.

"Mrs. McGreevy's Boarders" is the name of the playlet that will be presented by the 8 A. students. Miss Geneva Fleming is the report teacher of the class.

The injured men were taken to their homes and treated.

Pay Tribute To Thomas Solomon

Scores of seventh ward residents and friends from New Castle and surrounding cities gathered at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church on Monday morning for the funeral services in memory of Thomas Solomon, highly respected seventh ward business man, who died several days ago.

It was a fitting tribute and showed the deep sorrow caused by the passing of the well known citizen.

Rev. W. W. Sniff was the speaker and prayers were given by Rev. D. C. Schnebly and Rev. David Daye Sleppy.

LIBRARY CLUB

Kotex is safe

That's why millions of women prefer this modern sanitary pad

BECAUSE Kotex absorbs by a scientific method, it is safer than ordinary sanitary protection. It is soft—not a deceptive softness that soon packs into chafing hardness, but a delicate, lasting softness. That's because it absorbs laterally, giving it a larger area of protection than ordinary pads.

Kotex may be worn on either side, with no possible danger of embarrassment. It is adjustable. You can remove layers of the filler as your needs change. It deodorizes, as you probably know. It gives safe, secure protection. And it is, of course, disposable.

Last year 85% of our great hospitals bought Kotex absorbent in great quantities. What a tribute to its hygienic superiority!

A JOURNEY TO VENUS

Being An Account Of A Flight Through Space From The Earth To The Planet Venus

By S. S. MYERS

CHAPTER VII
A few rods farther on there was a break in the cliff at the mouth of a narrow ravine.

As we were about to pass this we discovered our cliff dwellers grouped around the carcass of the missing bear. With them were at least twenty other individuals who doubtless lived in caves in the vicinity. They had dragged or carried the dead bear some distance up the ravine and with sharp stones and their bare hands, had torn off part of the thick hide and were feasting on the raw meat. It was a banquet with which we deemed it advisable not to interfere, so we passed on to where we had left our boat.

We arrived back on the south shore of the lake very much exhausted, realizing that a tramp of six or seven miles on Venus required as much physical exertion as one twice that distance on the earth. Walking through the atmosphere of that planet one met with nearly as much resistance as if walking through water.

We remained here several days exploring the country round about. The barren plain immediately south of the lake, which had evidently been a part of the lake bottom at one time, was not entirely barren farther south, being covered with a coarse gray grass. On our first visit to that locality we came upon a herd of small animals that resembled tiny horses. They were not much larger than goats but had heads like horses. As we drew near they threw up their heads in alarm and dashed off toward the adjacent forest.

That evening Edward Linn, who had at one time been a cow-boy, rigged up a lasso with ropes taken from the tents in the hold of our ship, saying that he proposed to capture one of those diminutive ponies.

The next day we again visited the southern part of the plain and discovered the herd at a distance near the edge of the forest. Leaving us there Mr. Linn stole into the woods in order to get near them without being seen. We waited until he had time to reach his destination, then moved around so as to get on the opposite side of the animals. As we drew near they again took the alarm and dashed toward the spot where Linn was concealed. The next moment he leaped into view and the lasso spun out and settled over one of the nearest him. The animal rolled over and Linn, taking in the rope hand over hand was soon upon it winding the rope around its legs. When we arrived on the scene he had it securely bound, affording us a good opportunity to study it carefully at our leisure. The head and body were those of a horse with a short mane that hung on both sides of its neck, and no tail to speak of.

The hoofs were unlike those of a horse in that it had three toes, one large one in the middle and two very small toes, one on either side. Having satisfied our curiosity, we released it and it galloped away like a rabbit in the wake of the herd.

Occasionally we sighted other small creatures among the trees which we took to be a species of monkey, but we never succeeded in getting very close to them. One thing we noticed in particular was the absence of birds such as are found on the earth. Never a bird song did we hear during our sojourn on Venus. We observed a number of flying creatures but they could scarcely be called birds; they looked more like bats or lizards.

While it takes the earth 365 days to make its journey around the sun, Venus passes around in 225 days. Consequently we were compelled to remain on Venus until it overtook the earth and passed it far enough so that the earth would be at a point directly opposite where Venus was when we left it, thus giving us the shortest route between the bodies. This, our scientists calculated would be 81 days from the time we arrived. While we could discover very little difference between the length of days on the two planets, owing to the absence of the sun, we calculated earth days by our watches.

During the remainder of our stay we made a few short excursions in the ship, westward and northward, flying over forests, jungles and swamps, but saw no other large body of water, although we sighted a number of small lakes and streams. We frequently observed large animals through openings in the forest, but they were always so far below us that, on account of the misty atmosphere, we could not determine what they were even through the glasses.

We refrained from making any extensive journeys in order that we might conserve our supply of gasoline. While Professor Schwarzen, ski calculated that we still had a sufficient supply to take us through the atmosphere of Venus and that of the earth on our arrival there, we decided to be on the safe side.

Although we discovered a variety of living creatures on Venus, we only came in contact with that one tribe of bipeds that resembled human beings. We might have found many others had we been able to explore further. But while they had some resemblance to a low order of humanity, they were far from being human. We could only class them as half man and half ape. Unlike apes, they made their dwelling place in a cave and had acquired a crude means of defense. They doubtless had the beginning of a crude language among them as evidenced that day at the mouth of the cave when presented with the silver ring.

At last the time came for us to set out on our journey back to the earth, and I am sure we were all glad to get away from a world with which we had nothing in common. It certainly was no fit dwelling place for civilized man. Our scientists were agreed as to the opinion that Venus is now in the first stages of the tertiary period, at the beginning of the age of mammals, as was the case on the earth millions of years ago. Ages hence the atmosphere may become less dense, the vast envelop of clouds may roll away and permit the sun to shine in upon the surface bringing a different order of animal and vegetable life and, with color and beauty, making it a glorious dwelling place for intelligent beings. In time evolution may work wonders as it has on the earth. But that will be far in the future as humanity reckons time.

At present the planet is subjected to severe storms which lay waste large areas of forests. Two of these storms we witnessed but were fortunate enough to be out of their paths. We established the fact that Venus rotates on its axis once in about every twenty four hours and does not keep one side always toward the sun as one astronomer has intimated. We also discovered that the planet tilts on its axis, to a less degree, perhaps, than the earth, yet there are no marked season changes owing to the envelop of clouds that surround it. On our approach we imagined we could see small ice caps at the poles, but could not make sure of that because of the clouds.

As the time for our departure drew near the two mechanics drew over the dirigible plane carefully. Some parts of the machinery had to be replaced by new parts, of which Schwarzenki had brought along an ample supply.

During the afternoon of the day set for our departure we embarked, shut ourselves in, started the gasoline engines, and after rolling a short distance over a runway we had prepared, our ship took to the air and we were off, all unaware of the difficulties and dangers in store for us.

Farmer's Turkey Flock Lives Up To Dreams

RUPERT Idaho, Jan. 20.—For once agricultural mathematics worked out and D. Grisanti, happy Jackson farmer, is the beneficiary thereof.

Early in 1930 Grisanti indulged in that sport of speculating on how much his flock of turkeys would increase during the season. It was fine fun to imagine squadrons of small turkeys following his hens.

But this time dreams came true. For, at the end of the season, Grisanti's flock of ten hens had increased to over 300. He sold enough birds to receive $900 and still had a fine nucleus for 1931.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

How To End Rheumatism In Less Than A Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff, inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now!

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous "rheumatic" poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain-deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

New Castle Drug Co., Eckerd's says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

Adds delightful FLAVOR

How slowly it pours!
That's because Heinz
Tomato Ketchup is so rich and thick—the delightful essence of great,
ripe, garden-fresh tomatoes, delicately spiced.
Nothing is added to make bulk. Flavor and goodness, through and through . . . yet priced
so very reasonably.

Daisy Devoe To Undergo Severe Grilling Today

Clara Bow's Former Secretary Denies Having Made Confession To Police

"MUD-SLINGING" IS FORBIDDEN

By LYLE ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 20.—Daisy Devoe, flaxen-haired confidante of the impetuous Clara Bow, screen star today facing further cross-examination, defied the ghosts of her immediate past after she had once broken down near to tears at mention of her mother, as she was grilled by Prosecutor David H. Clark during her trial for grand theft.

The ghosts menacing Miss Devoe were two detectives and a policeman who, it was testified, had obtained her complete confession of robbing Miss Bow of $35,000 and trying to extort an additional $125,000 in return for purloined love letters.

The detectives, Blaney Matthews and Joe Cline, and Policewoman Marjorie Fairchild were ready today to refute Miss Devoe's oft-repeated denial that an alleged confession had been made by the defendant.

Miss Devoe icily calm, told Clark time after time she did not make answers as indicated in the alleged confession.

Then when Clark asked her how much money she had been giving her mother, Mrs. Ida Devoe, Miss Devoe's blue eyes misted and her lips quivered.

If Miss Devoe defied her own ghosts, she failed today to recall time in the past of Clara Bow.

Judge William C. Doran had sternly forbidden "a mud-slinging carnival" such as marked introduction of earlier evidence.

Bullets Are Fatal To John Pastore

Former New Castle Man Dies From Injuries Inflicted By Unknown Assailants

John Pastore, 31, former New Castle resident, who was shot at Campbell, O., Sunday evening, died last night in the Youngstown hospital. Pastore suffered from three bullet wounds, inflicted by bandits who escaped in a Ford coupe.

So far police have failed to get a clue to the murderers. Pastore was unable to furnish any information that might lead to a solution of the mystery.

Police of Campbell, O., had a theory that the shooting had some connection with the arrest of former attorney, Clyde Gibson, of this city. It was said that Gibson, while acting as a special prosecuting attorney here, had convicted Pastore's wife of keeping a disorderly house; also that Pastore tipped off the officers to the identity of Gibson. In the opinion of local authorities the prosecution had nothing to do with the shooting. It is believed here that the motive was one of revenge for some real or fancied wrong by other parties.

Burns Postal Funds In Oven Bank

"Safety Deposit Box" Not So Good In Case Of Fire

(International News Service)
NONSUCH, Mo., Jan. 20.—There is something lacking about the oven of the kitchen range in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Garrett here. To be exact, $15,000 in promissory notes, $30 in silver and about $100 in currency is lacking.

The oven had been used by Mrs. Garrett as a "safety deposit box" for the notes and money since she brought them home from the bank at Linn Creek, Mo., which is soon to become the basin of the Lake of the Ozarks.

The valuable papers, together with the small amount of currency and silver, comprised the funds of Nonsuch postoffice, where Mrs. Garrett presides as postmistress.

Returning from her duties at the postoffice Mrs. Garrett built a fire in the kitchen range. The draft was especially good and the fire soon sounded a roar in the chimney and warned the house comfortably.

Suddenly Mrs. Garrett recollected having hidden the papers and money in the oven. She dashed to the stove and opened the oven door. She was greeted by paper ashes and a small lump of silver that represented $30 in melted silver coin.

R. B. McDannel Co. of New Brighton is the contractor in charge of the entire program. A force of men has been at work since October making good progress on the Science Hall and Chapel. It is expected that all three buildings will be ready for use early next fall.

The men's dormitory is similar in appearance to Memorial Hall, the present home of Grove City men. It will provide attractive apartments for about 100 men, arranged on the unit plan and comfortable furnished. A dining room with space for 500 men will be included and all the resident men of the college will take their meals in the new building. The dormitory will form one side of a quadrangle which is to be a feature of the development program.

Five Year Old Girl Senses The Need Of Help

Makes Plea For Poor Children That She Hears Others Talking About

There are many who have great faith in prayer.

Among those persons in this city is one little five year old girl who resides on the North Hill and the prayer that she made the other night on retiring, was certainly worthy of fulfillment.

The other night at supper time she heard the older members of the household talking about a man, who had a family of nine children, who was unable to get work and whose family was suffering from the lack of the bare necessities of life, as a result.

It was noticed that she was very deeply impressed by what she had heard, but the matter was dismissed from the minds of the older people for the time and until it was brought more forcibly to their attention.

On retiring, the little girl as her last act before going to sleep knelt down to say her prayers.

And she was heard to say "Oh God, Please give that man a job so that he may get his nine children something to eat."

There's every reason to believe that this prayer will be answered at least in part.

Third Church Begins Second Week Services

Monday evening the Third United Presbyterian church, of which Rev. S. B. Copeland is the pastor, began its second week of evangelistic services with Dr. George A. Long, pastor of the Homewood United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, as the speaker. A large and interested audience greeted Dr. Long's first appearance.

He used as the subject of his first sermon "John the Baptist's Witness to Christ", bringing out that Christ is supreme in His greatness; that He has had no peers; that He is supreme in His spiritual sufficiency; that He alone can give the power to live a holy life; that He is supreme in the finality of His sacrifice and that He is supreme in His essential deity—God and man in one person.

He closed with an appeal to make Him supreme in the lives of all his hearers. This evening Dr. Long's sermon subject will be "Nothing is Nothing."

Fisher Presides Over Bonfire In Capital Monday

State Bonds Tossed To Flames
By Governor And His Aides Today

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—They held a bonfire at Pennsylvania's state capital Monday.

And the principal attendants were the state fiscal officers of the commonwealth and Gov. John S. Fisher.

There wasn't any capering about. Traditional with bonfires. But high spirits were manifested, for into the fire were tossed state bonds with a par value of $40,312,000.

The bonds had been printed when the two $50,000,000 issues for state highway construction were authorized. The full $100,000,000 was issued but the bonds burned yesterday were not needed because of changes in the interest rate and denominations.

Assisting the governor in the destruction of the bonds were State Treasurer Edward Martin, Auditor General Charles Waters and Arthur P. Townsend, secretary of the budget for the state.

PRESTO! CHANGO!
"This is my car," exploded the frate tourist to the garage man "and what I say about it goes—see?"

Just then a dirty-faced mechanic crawled out from under the dead machine and said: "Say, 'engine, mister."

THE MINATURE FAD.
The present vogue, in New York, for little things is interesting. We have small apartments, small furniture, diminutive automobiles, miniature golf, midsize pianos, microscopical salaries, and now a woman has come along with a flock of Chihuahua dogs—bone polishers no bigger than mice. They are of noble ancestry, are said to be sturdy and to possess sunny dispositions.

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT.
Some of the gang from 47th Street and Broadway, en route to Miami, have decided not to stop off at Atlanta, as originally planned. At the last minute they learned that a bill is on file in the Georgia House of Representatives levying a tax of $1 a day upon all persons who wear Red neckties.

Decorated and colored "shorts." The bill must have smelled like red herring to the legislators, because they referred it to the Game and Fish Committee.

NUTS BITE SQUIRRELS.
With the average man a trifle more cautious than ordinarily, with his coin, racketeers have been having a hard winter. Recently, in desperation, they conceived the dazzling, three-cornered idea of mailing unordered fountain pens, trick pencils, neckties and things, out to gentlemen in the rural districts, known as "hicks."

To the Tammany Town grifter, anyone residing in the United States of America beyond the glare of the Broadway Amperage, is a "hick."

And here's what happened: The "hicks" have devised a racket of their own to beat the racket. Receiving the socks, neckties, stickpins and what not, they sit down and write as follows:

"Goods received. I do not want them and will be glad to return them to your duly authorized representative on payment of $1 for storage of same."

As Frank Craven would say: "That's Gratitude!"

SIDEWALK TO ART GALLERY.
Sammy Cahan whose etchings, now on display in New York, are attracting far-flung attention got his start one summer afternoon twenty-five years ago when a discriminating newspaper editor, having lunched at Mougins's old restaurant on Fulton St., emerged to observe Sammy, on his knees, barefooted and hatless, drawing pictures on the sidewalk. Then and there Cahan was hired as office boy in the paper's art department, and had to borrow a pair of shoes to go on his first job.

You often hear disappointed artists and writers yipping about the "inspiration" among Mediocrities. Higher Up to keep genius panting at the windlass; and if you're a Headliner, you won't linger very long in the Bush League.

CHANCE ENCOUNTER.
Harry Hansen, one of the few New York literary critics who knows what he's talking about, in a recent review of Ogden Nash's new book, "Hard Lines," tells of his first meeting with the author.

It was at a meeting of the Book-sellers of America in Boston, several years ago. Late in the evening they had repaired to Childs for lunch after a strenuous literary session. A plate of griddle cakes was going the rounds and by some inadvertence landed on the head of Bernie Tobey. That gentleman suspected one Wallis Howe, of the Atlantic Monthly, and retalliated with a bluefish en coquette avec pommes frites.

"About that time," says Hansen, "my head came in forcible contact with another's, under the table. I looked around and there was Ogden Nash."

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Declaring he saw little future for rural banks, John W. Pole, controller of currency, today advocated gradual extension of branch banking. He appeared before the Glass subcommittee of the senate Banking and Currency committee.

The committee, which began its inquiry into the federal reserve and national banking systems of the country, had intended hearing Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board but although he was present the committee deferred calling him until the senate has acted on his nomination. Meyer is now serving under a recess appointment and there is some opposition to his confirmation. The pole said 90 per cent of the bank failures during the past five years were rural banks.

The New Castle agency, long a leader in the group, composed of larger stations, placed second. The Alliance force topped honors after a thrilling competition led by Agent L. A. Plance. Erie was third.

In the middle-sized group, where the banner was won by Olean, Cambridge ranked second, Warren third, and Wheeling, W. Va., fourth. The agent at Olean is J. T. Welch.

Next to West Brownsville in the group of smaller stations, came New Lexington, O., with Orville, O., third and Titusville, Pa., fourth. H. W. B. Fugate is agent at West Brownsville, the only station that completed the year with a perfect score in handling freight.

Needs Rain Badly

(International News Service)
POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Schuylkill county today turned its collective eye to the heavens in anxious search of clouds portending heavy rainfalls—needed to relieve the drought which has paralyzed water supplies throughout the county.

Residents in the higher sections here were without water today, as an inadequate supply slowly trickled from the city's remaining reservoir, with no sufficient emergency supply in immediate sight.

Three of the local reservoirs are dry and the fourth, at Indian Run, is at the lowest stage ever recorded.

Tells Of Germany

Economical And Political Situation In Germany Now In Hands Of Hindenberg

Mrs. H. L. Gordon and Mrs. Robert Garland were hostesses Monday afternoon when the Women's club met in Highland United Presbyterian church for the regular semi-monthly meeting.

Mrs. A. B. Street, president, was in the chair and matters of a routine nature were transacted after which Mrs. E. P. G. Harper took charge of the program and presented Dr. John Coleman of Geneva College, who needs no introduction to New Castle folks.

When Dr. Coleman arose he was greeted with most hearty applause, as he is a general favorite with the members of the club, having appeared on their programs for the past seven years.

Dr. Coleman had chosen as his subject for Monday, "The Present Crisis in Germany," and he took up the economical and political status of that country today.

He stated that at present Von Hindenberg is "sitting on the lid" and has the situation in Germany as well in hand as it is possible to have it. Von Hindenberg is a man and a half, a strong, sturdy, heavy shouldered man, a perfect German type and is in spite of his years, handles the situation with decision and judgement that would put many a younger man to shame.

The illiteracy of Germany is one of her great handicaps at present, there being a great percentage of the population who have had absolutely no education.

The debts of Germany are tremendous and they have little advantage for recuperating from this as one eighth of their territory was lost to agriculture during the World War and now there is but one sixth that is productive. They have no resources whatsoever, Pennsylvania, with her coal, iron and other products, has more in this line than they have in the whole of Germany.

The whole country shows the havoc and devastation of the war and it is the middle class, the working class, that is the greatest sufferer. The average wage of the working man is $300 a year and the profit obtained from any source, of everything so low that there is no profit obtained from any source.

During the first five years after the war Germany paid back to France and England two billion dollars in reparations and they borrowed four billion for developing their railroads, which have been practically rebuilt, but all roads are running at a loss.

The government has 250,000 parents to keep and 370,000 widows to pay a pension to; the taxes of the country are 27 percent of the national income; their taxes are two and a half times what they are in the United States.

The unemployment problem in Germany is even greater than it is elsewhere.

Arrangements have been made to pay their debt to the United States either in gold or to take the value in wheat and Hindenberg says "Pay"; England, France and United States says "Pay" but Germany has nothing to pay her debts with.

When the question of who was responsible for the war comes up, some say Russia, Germany says Serbia and Austro-Hungary, but no one says "Germany". At present the country has 383 millions of dollars tied up in armaments, from which they can derive not a cent, but Hindenberg expects to take the reins in hand and drive the country on to some kind of prosperity and at present he has the situation well in hand.

The crisis now in Germany is the low production and the low wages. Now and then a community wakes up and discovers that it cannot get everything it should have without raising the taxes.—The Santa Rosa Press Democrat.

Goodnough Praised For His Fairness

Speaker C. Jay Goodnough
Gets Tribute From House For His Committees

Several Philadelphians Opposed To Pinchot Receive Chairmanships

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Despite rumors of "retaliation" and intimations that Philadelphia county members would be shunted off the stand of the Philadelphia Republican organization in the last campaign, house members today rendered unstinted praise to Speaker C. Jay Goodnough for the fairness with which he handled a difficult situation.

Governor Pinchot and his aides passed on House committee appointments. Ostensibly with an eye to severe dealing, but the administration sprang a surprise when the list was made public at last night's session and a number of committee chairmen were found to be openly opposed to the administration.

With 41 members in the house, largest delegation in the state, Philadelphia county drew 9 of the 40 standing committee chairmanships, including those on banking, corporations, ways and means, counties, insurance, public health, federal relations, printing and geological survey.

Allegheny county, with a delegation of 27 in the house, ranked 8 of the chairmanships, but drew plums in the shape of the all-important chairmanships of the appropriations and judiciary general committees.

In addition, the chairmen of the committee on boroughs, cities, constitutional amendments, judicial appointment, labor, and repeal bills were named from the Pittsburgh sector.

Indiana Draws Two
Indiana county drew two chairmanships; the rest were distributed singly among 21 counties.

Standing committees of the House for the 129th session, and their chairmen, are:
Appropriations, Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny; aeronautics, Ellwood J. Turner, Chester; agriculture, W. Albertson Haines, Bucks; banking, Sheppard H. Royle, Philadelphia; boroughs, Louis W. Hagmaier, Allegheny; building and loan associations, C. R. Griffin, Indiana.

Cities, William F. Stadlander, Allegheny; congressional apportionment, Robert S. Spangler, York; constitutional amendments, William J. Bell, Allegheny; corporations, Clinton A. Sowers, Philadelphia; counties, Patrick Conner, Philadelphia; education, T. B. Wilson, McKean; elections, D. Glenn Moore, Washington; federal relations, Albert S. C. Millar, Philadelphia; fisheries, J. B. Henderson, Fayette; forestry, A. L. Sheffer, Mifflin.

Game, Albert P. Way, Clearfield; geological survey, Samuel J. Perry, Philadelphia; highways, Charles F. Bidschpacher, Lycoming; insurance, Edward Haws, Philadelphia; judicial apportionment, Arthur Sowers, Allegheny; judiciary general, James H. McClure, Allegheny; judiciary local, Norman Wood, Lancaster; judiciary special, Charles W. Staudenmeier, Schuylkill; law and order, Harry E. Hines, Armstrong.

Legislative apportionment, Elder Peeler, Indiana; manufactures, J. Llewellyn Meredith, Chester; military affairs, Alexander P. Wheeler, Forest.

Mines and mining, Howard P. Reider, Westmoreland; municipal corporations, John W. Storb, Montgomery; pensions and gratuities, J. Anson Wright, Bedford; printing, Edwin C. Emhardt, Philadelphia; public health, James J. Heffernan, Philadelphia; public utilities, A. W. Mumford, Warren; railroads, G. W. Williams, Tioga.

Repeal bills, Edward B. Goehring, Allegheny; state government, Floyd B. McLeary, Northampton; townships, John J. Heffernan, Luzerne; ways and means, Philip Sterling, Philadelphia; labor, James Wettach, Allegheny.

Farrell Men Are Ordered To Pay
Fine By Court

Failure Of Bank Is Held No
Reason For Suspension
Of Fine

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa., Jan. 20.—Three Farrell men, trustees of the Slovak Club, who were fined $400 and costs by the court, following the finding of liquor on the premises of the club by County Detective Leyshock, back in 1928, were summoned before Judge J. A. McLaughlin today and ordered to pay fines of $400 and costs, levied three years ago. They were given until February 4 to pay.

Following their conviction and sentence, a check in the sum of $1,400 was given in payment to Mr. Belle Emery, clerk of courts by Michael Bobby, treasurer of the club. In the meantime, the bank where the club kept their funds, was closed by the state banking commissioners, and the check was not paid by the bank.

The court informed the men, that they were the ones who had been fined, not the club or the club treasurer, and the failure of the bank and loss of funds by the club was held no reason why they should not pay.

The men are Ned Parzak, John Sarakach, and Mike Bartko.

Smash Large Dope
Ring In Balkans

(International News Service)
BELGRADE, Jan. 20.—A wide-spread arms-and-narcotic smuggling organization operating between Austria, Yugoslavia and other Balkan countries, has been discovered by the Belgrade police.

Five members of the narcotic ring were arrested. Several kilograms of cocaine were found in their possession.

Prompted by an information by the League of Nations Drug Commission that indications pointed to the existence of an active trade in narcotics in Croatia, several suspects in various parts of the country were observed by police agents for several months. The five narcotic runners, now arrested, confessed they bought their supplies of cocaine in Austria for 20,000 dinars or 2,400 Austrian shillings per kilogram. Before the arrest was made, the smugglers told police agents they could supply any amount of revolvers.

General Assembly Prepares To Receive Flood Of Bills In Short
Session

Standing Committees Are Announced In House—
Committees Offer
Reports

By ARTHUR B. DONEGAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—A flood of proposed legislation hung over the lower house of the General Assembly today as members prepared to meet in session at 9:45 a. m., receive bills, clear up a few details or organization and then, with decks cleared for action, participate in the inauguration of Gifford Pinchot as Governor of Pennsylvania.

Presentation of bills in the house today was facilitated by adoption of a resolution introduced by Rep. Robert S. Spangler, York, setting January 20 as the date for first introduction of the welter of proposed laws reposing in the desks of members.

Among the outstanding bills expected to be tossed into the house hopper at its session was one abolishing the coal and iron police system, from Rep. Michael A. Musmanno, Allegheny; another providing for abolition of "Yellow Dog" labor contracts, from Rep. Lillith M. Wilson, Berks; and a veritable deluge of appropriation measures.

Committees Announced

The house met for the second time in 1931 last night, confining itself to announcement of the personnel of standing committees and reception of committee reports.

Report of a committee named two years ago to find rooms for committee meetings during this session drew the ire of the chamber when it was filed by Rep. George L. Reed, Dauphin.

The report urged an amendment to the administrative code restricting the Department of Property and Supplies in its assignment of rooms, and drew caustic comment from members regarding the past practice of the department in assigning committee meeting places.

A vagrant whisper of the senatorial campaign of 1928 which resulted in the election of William S. Vare, Philadelphia, to the United States Senate and his subsequent disbarment from that body, reached the lower chamber in the form of a resolution sponsored by Rep. Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware.

Resolution Offered
The resolution calls upon the legislature members formally to "express their conviction that Senator James J. Davis was legally nominated and elected in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth and that his right to a seat in the Senate of the United States should not be disputed or contested or denied."

Under house rules, the resolution was laid over for printing and may be called for a vote late today.

Actual session of the house lasted less than an hour, although it marked time for 40 minutes while waiting to hear from the senate. The latter chamber, however, had not organized and finding it uncommunicative, the speaker adjourned the house.

Meanwhile, the senate prepared to convene at 10:30 a. m. today with a hope of coming to complete agreement on selection of committees, which would permit introduction of bills in the short session preceding inauguration of Lieut. Gov. Elect Edward C. Shannon.

Distribution of patronage proved a snag in the upper chamber last night, and prevented submission of the entire list prior to the overnight adjournment.

Action Deferred
Heralded possibility of attempted action against James Walker, Butler, and James S. Benn, Philadelphia—Public Service commissioners named by Governor Fisher and submitted to the senate for approval—failed to develop. Instead, the senate confirmed the nomination of Arthur Nicholson, Wilkes-Barre, as treasurer of Luzerne county, and passed approvingly on a host of nominations for notaries public.

Action on all other nominations was "deferred to a latter date."

The course of the senate in failing to take action on the Public Service nominations was taken as an indication that no attempt will be made, at least at present, to block Governor Pinchot's program. It is taken for granted that the new governor will make every possible effort to prevent confirmation of Walker and Benn, particularly the latter.

Predicts Revival
Of Trade In Spring

(International News Service)
LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 20.—A revival of trade in the Spring is predicted by Professor J. H. Jones, lecturer in Economics at Leeds University.

Addressing the Liverpool Rotary Club, Professor Jones said—"We are frequently told by pessimists that industry will never get better—but the clouds are actually moving."

"In three or four months from now you will see the beginning of a break in the clouds and a definite silver lining in the United States."

"If history can be accepted as a safe guide, it is reasonable to expect that in the Spring there will be the beginning of a revival in the United States and that cannot fail to affect the industries of other countries including our own."

Civic Theatre Players To Give Benefit Comedy At Senior High

Mere words can do little credit to the fans that has attached itself to the slangy phrase, "Is Zat So," title of the three-act comedy which New Castle's Civic Theatre Guild players will present for public approval in the senior high auditorium on Wednesday evening. It is to be given on Thursday as well.

Proceeds of the play, directed by Kurt McKee of Carnegie Tech's drama school, go to the benefit of Mayor Gillespie's civic committee on relief.

Dress rehearsal was scheduled for tonight in order that final approval might be given. Practices so far have been outstanding and it is expected the performance of tomorrow will outdo even the hilarious "This Thing Called Love," the guild's last successful production.

Capable characters make up the different roles of "Is Zat So," several new players being included in the cast. The parts will be played unusually well, or at least very rehearsal has indicated that.

Robert Hoose, leading man in "The Youngest" which the seniors of the high school gave last week will share the leading male roles tomorrow night with Joe Graham. Playing opposite them are Mollie Livingston and Buddie Barrett.

Dog Owners Slow

Dog owners appear to be slower than usual in taking out licenses this year, according to County Treasurer Adda M. Smiley. So far 3,313 licenses have been issued. ## Dr. Clendening Begins New Series Describing Diseases Of The Nose

Medical Authority Outlines Complicated Nasal Anatomy,
Telling Readers Causes Of Sinus Difficulties

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I have just made a list of the subjects which the readers of this column most frequently ask to be informed about. Sinus disease and gopher lead.

This week I will try to explain, to the best of my ability, the general principles of the diseases of the sinuses of the nose and other forms of nose disease.

The anatomy of the nose is very complicated. The sphenoid bone which furnishes most of the scaffolding for the nose has so many knobs and projections and processes that it is the despair of medical students. Oliver Wendell Holmes, who besides being a poet was professor of anatomy at Harvard Medical school, used to begin his lectures on the sphenoid by saying: "Gentlemen, damn the sphenoid bone."

The ethmoid bone, parts of which are the famous turbinates, is almost as complicated. The ethmoid and sphenoid consist of very light, fine bones, curving into innumerable curls and scrolls. To describe them in detail would be quite impossible, especially without drawings or models; but we can simplify matters and describe the nose in general terms.

Looking into the nostrils you see that the two sides of the nose are separated by a plate of cartilage, the septum. Theoretically, this should be straight and flat, but being made of soft tissue, cartilage, it hardly ever is. And hence comes untold misery to mankind. Looking in the nostrils, you will also be able to see a large curved mass of bone, on the outer side of each nasal cavity opposite the septum. This is the lower turbinate. The turbinates on each side are bones covered with thick, constantly moistened mucous membrane. There are three turbinates on each side, but on ordinary inspection you will not be able to see the upper two.

On each side there are three large air spaces opening into the nasal cavity by narrow little holes. These are the sinuses. One is in the bone just above the eye, represented by the little bulge over the eyebrows.

This is the frontal sinus. One is behind the cheek bone—the maxillary sinus. One is deep in the back part of the skull—the sphenoid sinus. Almost the same as sinuses are the labyrinthine ethmoidal cells.

These sinuses are lined by the same mucous membrane which lines the nose. It secretes a mucous moisture which drains through the little openings into the nose.

What functions do the sinuses perform? This is not an easy question to answer. We could get along without them, and would probably be better off if the bones there were solid. The most likely answer is that they represent an economical plan of structure. Parts of a house are useful, not only because they do something, but because that is the easiest way to build a house. The sinuses furnish lightness with strength in the building of the face.

Old Grey Mare Is Sadder But Wiser

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Harry Pitton's grey mare had her fling at night life last night.

Today she is back in the barnyard, a wiser, sadder animal. Last night she went out in the northern section of the city to see how things were handled after horses are expected to be in bed. The little journey caused such a mix up with traffic, that the electrical bureau was swamped with phone calls.

Patrolman McFadden and Davidson in a bandit chase located the mare on the Roosevelt boulevard near Oxford Circle. After a spirited chase, the mare was captured and returned to the barnyard.

MRS. ROSA REINHART

"For the past five years, I have suffered from stomach, kidney and liver troubles and Nu-Erb is the first medicine that has ever given me any real relief," said Mrs. Rosa Reinhart, 510 E. Jefferson St., Williamsport, Pa., in a recent interview.

"It seemed that no matter how careful I was of my diet, I suffered continually from indigestion and gas forming in my stomach after meals. This gas pressed up in my chest causing a continual distressed feeling from which I could get no relief. My kidneys called me up several times at night. I suffered from backache, constipation and nervousness."

"Since using Nu-Erb, the indigestion and gas have all been relieved. I am no longer troubled with backache. I sleep soundly without being disturbed by my kidneys, my bowels are acting regularly, my nerves are steady and I have a splendid appetite."

Ecker's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Motorman Gets Thrill As Auto Passes His Car

Puts On Emergency Brakes,
Stops Car, But It Is All Right Anyway

Operator of a Highland avenue street car, the other night, had a real thrill, in fact he was sure that there was going to be a serious accident, on the hill between Grant and Falls streets.

As he happened this way, he was enroute down the hill at this point, when suddenly he became aware of the fact that the headlights of an automobile were casting their shadows along the side of his car and were getting stronger and brighter all the time.

He knew and thought most everybody else knew that an automobile could not pass between the street car and curb at this point. But on came the light and being sure that there was going to be a smashup of some kind, he finally applied the emergency brakes and brought his street car to a dead stop on the hillside.

As he did so, an Austin shot past, with a foot on either side to spare. He felt kind of foolish, but breathed a little easier, as he started his car on down the grade to Falls street.

Governor Pinchot's Address At Inauguration Today

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Following is the complete text of Governor Gifford Pinchot's inaugural address, delivered at the state capital this afternoon:

Two forces are struggling for control of the governments of Pennsylvania and of the United States. One fights in the open, and has done so since the birth of this republic. It represents the theory of government set forth in the Declaration of Independence and established upon this continent by the sacrifices of our forefathers. Its central principle is the right of a free people to govern themselves. It recognizes the duty and responsibility of government to protect the people.

The other force operates under cover. It is directed by hidden powers for the advantage of a few as against the interests of the many. Its motives and methods are disclosed only when attacks upon it drive them into the open. Its central purpose is to control the government and so prevent it from protecting the people against manifold extortions, which take unjustly from the breadwinners many hundreds if not thousands of millions of dollars each year.

What is at stake in this conflict is the continuance of that government by the people which triumphed over government by the few when America declared and achieved her freedom.

In the great future which opens before us our people will either remain masters of their own destiny, or they will once more become subjects of that type of government whose destruction was the object of the French Revolution in Europe, and the American Revolution on this continent.

In this momentous struggle every citizen eventually must take his stand with one side or the other. It has become politically fashionable to doubt and flout the capacity of the people to govern themselves. It has become the custom to exalt and advocate government by little groups of self-respected powerful men as against that government by the people in which our fathers so passionately believed.

The cynics who cast that doubt are everlastingly wrong. Government by the people is the American way, the right way. With all my heart and soul I believe in it. With all the power I have, I shall defend it. The preservation of our Constitution, the prosperity of Pennsylvania, and the welfare of the plain people depend absolutely upon the perpetuation of the American form of government.

William Penn, founder of the commonwealth, said this:

"Any government is free to the people under it, where the laws rule, and the people are a party to those laws, and more than this is tyranny, oligarchy or confusion."

Here in Pennsylvania a carefully planned, elaborately financed and powerfully directed attack upon the rule of the people under the law has made substantial progress. It aims to substitute government by the public utilities for government by the people. It is not confined to Pennsylvania. Not a single state in the union is free from a similar attempt.

With few exceptions the men who would thus transfer the government of this commonwealth to great special interests are not Pennsylvanians. Their seat of power is another state, and their effort to control the affairs of this commonwealth is part of the wider attempt of the same men to control the nation.

I deny the right of this invisible government to exist in free America. I challenge the men who are working for it to come into the open, and to acknowledge in plain words what they are attempting to accomplish by secret action.

The captains of the undercover army engaged in this raid upon our form of government, like the captains of the armies who fought against Washington, have their mercenaries. The Hessians of those days have their counterparts in the controlled and corrupt political machines of today. Politicians who procure men to debauch the ballot, vote thieves who nullify the franchise of honest citizens, political contractors whose graft supplies the cash for war boards to use in crooked elections, public service commissions that listen complacently to their utility master's voice; these are the mercenaries without whom the public utilities would be powerless.

Back of the public utilities in their attack on our American form of government is the whole fabric of political corruption; the underworld, the protected racketeer, and criminals of high and low degree.

As the Hessians of the Revolution once held Philadelphia, so their successors hold it today. In their time our forefathers drove them out. So in our day must we.

For the second time in the history of Pennsylvania a man has been elected twice to the high office of governor. I approach my second term with firm reliance upon the Almighty, with clear purpose to do the right as God gives me to see the right, with a deep and humble sense of my responsibility, and with heartfelt gratitude to my fellow citizens.

I take office wholly free from any promise that is not a public promise, from any obligation that would hamper my full liberty to serve the commonwealth soberly, in honor and in truth.

My allegiance is first of all to the plain people—the men, the women, and the children—whose servant I am, whose mandate I hold, and whose interests I represent.

Eight years ago the task before the new administration was to relieve the state from the huge burden of debt into which many years of maladministration had plunged it, to substitute honest, economical and efficient government for waste and corruption, and to establish new political standards in this commonwealth.

The task today is to defeat the attack of the public utilities. Government by utility magnates must not be substituted for government by the people. We have no more compelling duty than to destroy the corruption upon which the power of the utilities depends.

Clean elections was a principal issue in the recent campaign. The new administration will leave nothing undone to carry through the affairs of the voters that election crookedness shall cease to disgrace our state.

Other matters also require attention. The problem of farm relief exists in Pennsylvania and demands the most serious consideration. The farmer and his family need relief from excessive taxation, and they need roads that will take them to their schools, churches and markets throughout the year. Two objects can be secured at once.

As I promised on the stump, in my first message I shall lay before the general assembly a practical and workable plan for farm relief in these two essential directions—a plan to transfer from the farm people in the townships of the commonwealth the responsibility and the cost of maintaining 20,000 miles of state roads. This is a greater mileage of state roads than any state in the union has today.

Prosperity is a general blessing. Substantially, we all go up and down together. Prosperous business, like prosperous farming, is necessary for the prosperity of people who neither do business nor farm.

During my first term nothing was left undone to promote and defend honest business. Partly as a result, business grew better and work more plentiful during those four years. I shall labor more earnestly for a return of the good times which marked my first administration.

I recognize the obligation upon every man in public office to exert his full power to promote the prosperity of honest business, and to prevent and defeat attacks upon it. This is especially true when, as now, millions are seeking a chance to work.

Prosperous business provides employment. Just at the moment opportunity to work is our greatest need.

The critical character of the unemployment problem was recognized when, without waiting for election, I appointed a statewide committee on unemployment. This committee, upon its duties at once, it has organized special committees in every county in the commonwealth, and is proceeding vigorously, intelligently, and with the most gratifying public cooperation to do what can be done in the present emergency.

But that is not enough. As with so many other evils, the best way to deal with unemployment is by prevention. A concrete plan for the purpose prepared by the committee on unemployment will be laid promptly before the general assembly.

On the wet and dry issue my record speaks louder than any words. It is well known not only that I believe in obeying and enforcing the 18th amendment because it is the law, but that I am a convinced supporter of the amendment itself. I repeat the declaration made in my first inaugural—this administration will be dry.

The depression from which not only Pennsylvanians but the whole nation now suffers is necessarily reflected in diminishing revenues from taxation. So large a part of Pennsylvania's taxes is levied upon the capital stock of corporations that we are especially affected.

It is a fundamental principle of good government to spend no more than there is to spend. Eight years ago the commonwealth had appropriated more than 30 million dollars beyond its ability to pay. The first Pinchot administration reduced expenses and paid off this debt. The second Pinchot administration will keep the expense of the commonwealth strictly within its income.

This is no time to load the burden of political taxes upon the backs of the people. The decision to avoid new taxes means that many worthy causes which are asking for large increases in appropriations cannot receive them. I regret the necessity for refusing to ask for the new taxes which alone could make these increases possible, but I am confident that such a course is right, and that the taxpayers will support me in that refusal.

It is my intention to keep the voters of Pennsylvania fully informed as to the progress of the public business, and as to the way in which their orders are being opposed or carried out. They have the right to know.

It should be easy for the people to see their governor. Therefore, the sign "Governor's Office—Walk Right In," which was displayed during my first term on certain days will appear again, and the door will be open to all who choose to come.

Many matters of vital importance to the commonwealth, such as the maintenance and improvement of the public schools, abolition of the coal and iron police, safeguards for the public health, and maintenance of hospitals and other state institutions, will be dealt with in subsequent messages to the general assembly or to the people.

The platform upon which I was nominated in the Republican primary was the platform upon which I was elected in the fall. It was the only platform advanced by the Republican party in the general election. It was adopted, and upon it I was chosen, by the electorate of the whole commonwealth. It will be the sailing chart of this administration.

I repeat that platform now as my pledge to the people of Pennsylvania.

I will use the full power of my office:

To break the stranglehold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus and other public utilities on the cost of living and the margin for happiness.

To free the government of Pennsylvania from combined machine and public utility control.

To abolish the public service commission. It is the catspaw of the corporations, unfaithful to the people, and worse than useless.

To replace it with a fair rate board elected (like our courts) by the people.

To have the fair rate board elected by districts, so that every part of the state will be represented.

To review and reduce, through the fair rate board, every unjust rate now charged by any electric, gas, water, trolley, bus or other public utility under its authority.

To give the fair rate board the power and duty, on demand of any household, to check and correct any electric, gas, water or other public utility meter.

To prevent any electric, gas, water or other public utility from raising any charge or rate until after it has been submitted, investigated at public hearings, and approved by the fair rate board.

To revise the public service law so as to make the fair rate board the defender of the people against high rates and poor service.

To lift the present unjust burden of taxes from the farmer, the home owner, and the business man by equalizing taxation throughout the state.

To give the country people good roads from home to market, church and school—summer and winter.

To give every child an equal chance for an education, and security in office for competent teachers.

To abolish coal and iron police, and replace it with officers selected and commanded by the commonwealth, and paid by it at company expense.

To prevent the unfair use of labor injunctions.

To secure old age pensions for the helpless poor.

To get work for the unemployed, and advance the planned and orderly development of Pennsylvania.

To prevent by law all political assessments on state, county, city, borough and other public servants, and punish those who solicit them.

To see that the state assists disabled and needy ex-service men who need opportunity most.

To stop stream pollution, and empower cities, boroughs and townships to protect their own water.

To lift the tax from small inheritances.

To secure clean elections in Pennsylvania.

To maintain and enforce the law. I will do my level best to give the children, the workers, the farmers the fare payers, the rate payers and the tax payers a Roosevelt square deal.

Through the decision of her citizens upon the issue of this platform Pennsylvania made a new declaration of independence. Her people registered their determination to manage their public affairs for themselves. In the hardest fought election for many years, in spite of unprecedented efforts by the public utilities and their political subordinates, the voters of Pennsylvania recorded themselves emphatically against control of their government by the little group of men who dominate the public utilities of this state.

It was a great and momentous decision. By it there is imposed upon the new administration and the general assembly, before all other duties, the duty of making and keeping the government of Pennsylvania free from public utility domination. To that great duty, in the sight of God and before the face of all the people I dedicate my administration.

Find Wedding Ring In Stomach When Animal Is Killed

Unusual Find Is Made By Frank Waddington At East Brook

Frank Waddington, a resident of East Brook who has been in the business of dealing with cows, pigs, and what have you for a number of years, today relates one of the most unusual incidents he has even encountered. He has evidence that proves the tale to be true.

Mr. Waddington has in his possession a beautiful 14 karat white gold wedding ring which probably once adorned the finger of a citizen, likely living in this vicinity. Where Mr. Waddington secured the ring is the feature in his story where many listeners are skeptical.

The ring was secured in the stomach of a 26 month's old bull. Two weeks ago Mr. Waddington purchased this bull in question from John Stan who resides in Chewton, Pa., just outside of this city.

On last Tuesday the bull was slaughtered in East Brook.

Upon performing the usual work on a slaughtered animal, Mr. Waddington discovered a sparkling object in the stomach. The sparkling look caused Mr. Waddington to look further. The wedding ring was found, which he has in his possession today.

Many ask how the ring got into the stomach of the animal? The writer believes that the owner of the ring, was probably mixing feeds for the animals and the ring more than likely slipped off her finger and landed into the feeds where the animal swallowed it.

Those who were present when the ring was found are Howard Waddington, Nate Rosenberg, and Joe Fratin.

P. H. C. Members To Have Meeting

Will Gather On Wednesday Evening—Tureen Dinner Is Postponed

Owing to the importance of the sessions to be held by New Castle Circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle on Wednesday evening, the usual monthly tureen dinner for members and their friends, has been postponed until the first regular meeting in February.

President David Tucker will call the Circle to order on Wednesday evening at seven thirty o'clock when officers and members are earnestly requested to be present at the sound of the gavel.

At eight o'clock the Circle chamber will be opened to the public when upon request an open installation of officers will be observed.

The impressive ceremonial will be exemplified with the grand secretary of the order Joseph Spencer of the Supreme office in Sharon presiding. Mr. Spencer is regarded as one of the most brilliant men in the organization and the local circle is to be congratulated upon his coming for this important occasion.

DANDRUFF

Soon Destroys the Hair

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

Manhattans Meets Lafayette's Here

Game Will Be Played At Hillsville Wednesday; Hillsville Girls In Prelim

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 20.—Ellwood City appears to be in for quite an interesting and exciting week. Tonight New Castle invades Lincoln Gym for a tussle with the Inglen and tomorrow the Manhattans will entertain the Lafayette's, the Allegheny County league champions at the Shelby auditorium.

This promises to be a real battle. The teams are tied for first place for honors for the second half. The local five has lately hit its stride and plays a calibre of ball it is really capable of. They have had four straight victories, including Flint and the J. J. Melles, who cameout 1-2 for the first half. After this accomplishment the Manhattans do not intend to have the Lafayette's stand in their way for the coveted honors. Further more they still have a matter of revenge to settle with the invaders. The game being played on the home floor, the Manhattans will be hard to beat.

Manager Al Thomas promises to muster his full lineup for this game including Whitey Littell of Beaver Falls, his latest acquisition.

Ellwood Ready For New Castle

School Teams Battle In Ellwood Tonight—Girls To Play Prelim

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 20.—Tonight at 8:30 the Ellwood City high school basketball team will entertain the New Castle hardwood artists at the Lincoln gymnasium. The deep rivalry between these two schools and the tradition of each will probably cause the gymnasium to be packed as is the usual custom upon the meeting of these old rivals.

The Bridenbaugh machine is undefeated in Section III, while Ellwood has dropped a close game to Butler last Saturday. The local five have had a stiff work out Monday night with Coach Ingle. They practiced several plays to penetrate the stellar zone defense of the invaders.

The probable lineup for Ellwood will be Cloak and Kennedy at forwards; Rossman, center; Zeigler and Dudick or Lattano at guards. For New Castle Wainio and Rowe will probably be at forwards; Lasky, center; and N. Uram and McAuley at guards.

The girls will stage a preliminary at 7:30. This will be the last game for three of the Ellwood girls, due to graduation. A good game is expected here also.

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 20.—A fine audience attended the Tabernacle service on Beaver avenue and heard the powerful message delivered by the Rev. Thomas Noah Carter, ex-convict evangelist. Rev. Miss Robinson had spent 35 years as a theatrical musician, but had given her life for the Gospel services and has been traveling with the Rev. Carter for a long period now. ## Morrison Made Goat As Pinchot Strikes At Fay

Removal From Compensation Board Is Believed Retaliatory Measure

MORRISON HAD SUPPORTED PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Removal of John L. Morrison, of Greenville as a member of the Workmen's Compensation Board, caused some surprise when the appointment of a new board was made public by Governor Pinchot late yesterday. Pinchot named former Judge Arthur C. Dale of Center county chairman of the board, replacing Paul W. Houck of Schuylkill county and William J. Bensch of Chester.

The removal of Morrison was taken to mean a direct slap at Senator Frank Fay of Greenville, for voting for Senator Augustus F. Daix Jr., in the Republican senatorial caucus.

Explanations Offered
Several explanations have been offered as to why the appointment was taken from Mercer county and given to Fayette.

One plausible is that when Fay voted for Daix and against Senator William B. Mansfield of McKeesport, Pinchot's candidate, he did so knowing that Morrison would be the sacrifice.

Just why Morrison should have been singled out to be put on the block because of Fay's action is not readily understood. Morrison was 21 years old in 1922, 1926 and in the primary and general elections of 1930. Morrison was a member of the board before Fay became a senator in 1927.

However, no matter what was Pinchot's motive in firing Morrison there is little doubt that it was because of a quick counter move by the anti-Pinchot forces of the Senate, who hastily re-arranged some of the Senate committee chairmanships with a view to do battle with the incoming governor.

original letter which Mr. Hoover drafted. The President declared, however, that he was "in unity with the spirit of the report," although he made the specific reservation with regard to the proposed substitute for the 18th amendment.

The text of Mr. Hoover's message follows:

Hoover's Message
"To the Congress: The first deficiency appropriation act of March 4, 1929 carried an appropriation for a thorough investigation into the enforcement of the prohibition laws, together with the enforcement of other laws.

"In pursuance of this provision I appointed a commission consisting of former Attorney General George W.ickersham, chairman; former Secretary of War Newton Baker; Federal Judge William S. Kenyon; Paul J. McCormick and William I. Grubb; former Chief Justice Mackintosh, of the Supreme Court of Washington; Roscoe Pound, of Harvard Law School; President Ada L. Comstock, of Radcliffe College; Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia; Monte M. Leman, of New Orleans; and Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago.

"The commission thus comprises an able group of distinguished citizens of character and independence of thought, representative of different sections of the country. For eighteen months they have exhaustively and painstakingly gathered and examined the facts as to the abuses under the prohibition laws, both before and since the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment. I am transmitting their report immediately.

Reports upon the enforcement of other criminal laws will follow.

"The commission considered that the conditions of enforcement of the prohibition laws in the country as a whole are unsatisfactory, but it reports that the federal participation in enforcement has shown continued improvement since and as a consequence of the act of Congress of 1927 placing prohibition officers under civil service, and the act of 1930, transferring prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, and it outlines further possible improvement.

"It calls attention to the urgency of obedience to law by our citizens and to the imperative necessity for greater assumption and performance by state and local governments of their share of responsibilities under the 'concurrent enforcement' provision of the constitution if enforcement is to be successful.

"It recommends that further and more effective effort be made to enforce the laws. It makes recommendations as to federal administrative methods and certain secondary legislation for further increase of personnel, new classification of offenses, relief of the courts, and amendments to the national prohibition act clarifying the law and eliminating irritations which arise under it.

"Some of these recommendations have been enacted by the Congress or are already in course of legislation. I commend these suggestions to the attention of the Congress at an appropriate time.

"The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view. I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic to preserve the gains which have been made, and to eliminate the abuses which exist at the same time facing with an open mind the difficulties which have arisen under this experiment.

"I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending. The commission's proposed revision of the Eighteenth Amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time, if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without quavering or reservation.

"The report is the result of a thorough and comprehensive study of the situation by a representative and authoritative group. It clearly recognizes the gains which have been made and is resolute that those gains shall be preserved.

"There are necessarily differences in views among its members. It is a temperate and judicial presentation. It should stimulate the clarification of public mind and the advancement of public thought.

(Signed) Herbert Hoover."

Large Quantity Of Goods Stolen By Thieves Evidently Provided With Auto

Hood's confectionery store, corner Maryland avenue and East Washington street, was the scene of a robbery last night and between $100 and $200 worth of the goods in the store was stolen.

Detectives John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch were detailed today to investigate the robbery and found that entrance was effected by breaking out a rear window. The thieves evidently had an automobile in view of the quantity of goods taken.

Among the articles taken were canned goods, candy, cigars, cigarettes, canvas gloves, fruits and coffee. The police are hopeful of making an arrest in the case.

Senate Committees Made Public Today

PINCHOT AGAIN ASSUMES POST AS STATE GOVERNOR

Governor Takes Oath
Immediately upon completion of the prayer the official returns which made Gifford Pinchot Governor were read by John W. McKirdy, Chief Clerk of the Senate.

As reading of the oath of office began, the Governor-elect standing with bare head and upraised hand, the Governor's flag was slowly unfurled, its fold whipping about his head.

As the new governor's firm "I do" rang out a nearby battery of field artillery began to boom the Governor's salute of 19 guns.

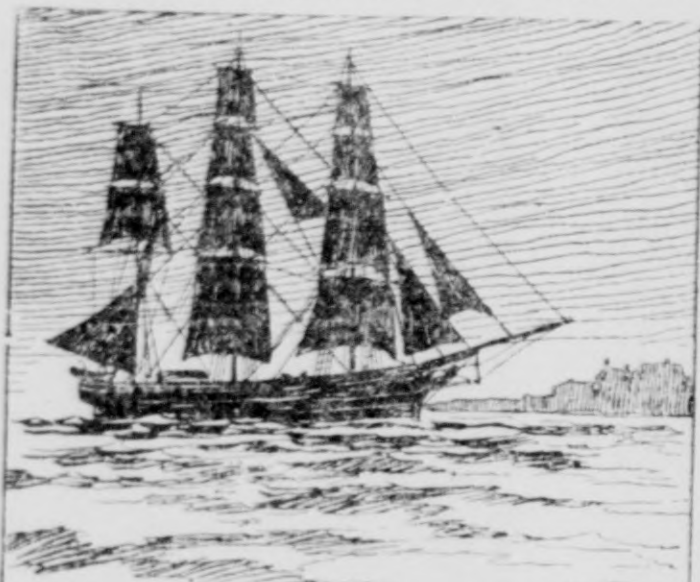

Pausing but a moment for the reverberation of the artillery to die down, the Governor launched into his address. He read in a clear, firm voice from notes and did not depart from the text of his prepared speech.

The first intimation of applause resounded through the Capitol grounds when Pinchot attacked "the invisible government" which he charged was grasping for control of public utilities and necessities.

Second Basemen Are Not Good Sluggers

Big League Second Basemen Excellent Fielders, But Are Weak With Stick

Frisch, Grantham And Thompson Only Players Assured Of Regular Berths

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Joe McCarthy, who admits he doesn't know who will start the season at second base for the Yankees, is but one of many Big League managers who are worried about the important infield position.

The woods are full of second sackers who can field their position with brilliance, but few of them can propel the horsehide to distant barriers with enough consistency to strike terror in the hearts of opposing pitchers. Fortunate indeed is the manager who can find a second baseman who can both hit and field.

Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals, Grantham of the Pirates and Fresco Thompson of Brooklyn are the only second sackers in the National League who seem certain of playing the full season at their position, and Thompson may be replaced by Jake Flowers or young Neal Finn if he gets the shakes as he did at Philadelphia last year when the fans started to ride him.

Critz Not Sure
Hughey Critz of the giants will have to step to keep young Eddie Marshall from getting his job. While Critz accepted more chances than any other second baseman in the league last season and is a dandy pivot man on double plays, he batted only .260 against Marshall's .309 average. John McGraw is sweet on the youngster, who can play either shortstop or at second.

Rogers Hornsby says he is going to play second base for the Cubs as well as do the master-minding for them. But if his bad heel bothers him, the Rajah will have to turn his playing duties over to Fouts Blair.

Fred McGuire, who hit only .267 for the Boston Braves last year, will have opposition from Charlie Wilson, versatile recruit from Rochester, and a six footer named Flaherty from Canton, Ohio.

Bank On Rookies
Tony Cucinello probably will be the Cincinnati second baseman, but Sigafos, drafted from Los Angeles, will get a thorough trial. Mallon, a highly touted Rookie from Fort Worth, will give the veteran Barney Friberg a battle for the Keystone position on the Phillies.
Young second baseman will have a harder job breaking into the American League lineups but there undoubtedly will be considerable shuffling before the second base position on several clubs, notably the White Sox, Red Sox and Yankees, is assigned definitely to one man.

Charlotte Hornet a Giant in the Making

Jim Mooney, formerly with the Charlotte Hornets, has been purchased by the New York Giants. Mooney will report to Manager John McGraw at the San Antonio training camp this Spring.

Davies Defeats Phil Tobias

Flyweights Stage Spectacular Battle At Castle Bowl

THREE BATTLES
END IN KNOCKOUTS

Willie Davies, 115 3-4, of Charleroi last night defeated Phil Tobias, 113 3-4, bugaboo of flyweights in a sensational 10-round bout at Castle bowl. It was one of the best fights that has been staged in this section in years and the fans who braved a snowstorm were amply repaid for their time.

According to a check of the rounds Davies captured five, Tobias won two and three were even. Willie proved too clever for the slugger but there were times when each was staggered with blows to the head. There was not an idle moment and each was given unstinted praise for their battling.

The fight was promoted for the purpose of helping to add to the fund of the mayor's relief committee and although the snowstorm kept many fans from the big arena there were sufficient number there to show a profit and the mayor's committee will realize benefit from the show.
As soon as the doors were opened Promoter Ed. Fritz assigned members of the mayor's committee to the doors and to the box office and gave them full authority to handle all the receipts with the boxing commission representative and as soon as a check is made of all tickets sold a report will be given the mayor.

Dignitaries There
The fight was attended by some of the most prominent citizens and their wives and there wasn't one word spoken or move made that would offend the most fastidious. The exhibition last night went far to elevate boxing here and city and state police are to be commended for their cooperation.

The bout had no sooner started than the flyweights started to slug. Phil staggered Willie toward the end of the round. In the second Davies forced the slugger to miss often, cuffing Tobias as he rushed. They slugged in the fourth and Davies staggered Tobias with a right to the jaw.

Claret oozed from Tobias' nose in this session and in the fourth both were staggered with punches to the head. Davies cut loose and took this round by a fat margin. He caught Phil coming in time and again and apparently forced Tobias to fight the kind of a fight he wanted him to.

Tobias was anxious to fight and he didn't lose any time tearing in but this was to Willie's liking. In the fifth they battled on even terms and the sixth contained exchanges to head and body. Davies staggered the bugaboo of the flyweights in the seventh and took the round easily.

Phil tried to get close to Davies in the eighth and succeeded on one or two occasions and when they did gloves flew as often as rain drops fall but Willie's ducking and footwork carried him out of corners and he took the round by a shade.

Phil Takes Ninth Round

The ninth opened with an exchange of lefts and Phil hooked a left to the jaw and jabbed several times to the face. Willie rapped with his left and they exchanged rights and lefts to the head in a slugfest. Tobias had the advantage and took the round which was filled with action.

They fought fast in the tenth after they shook hands for the concluding chapter. Davies put a left to the face, ducked away and sent a right to the jaw. Tobias jabbed twice then staggered Willie with a left to the head and put a right to the back of the head.

Davies shot a left to the face and Tobias retaliated with a right to the head. Davies ripped his left to the face and put a right to the jaw and Phil lifted a left hook to the stomach and shot short punches with his right to the jaw. It was a fairly even round.

The bell ended the fight and the decision was unanimous. Judge Frank Brown of Pittsburgh and Judge Tommy Jones of New Castle and Referee Red Robinson of Pittsburgh were the officials. Peter Capitola was the timekeeper. Bugs Walthers announcer and Michael Canevin represented Commissioner Boyle.

Commissioner Boyle in an effort to help the benefit bout along assigned Referee Robinson to alternate with Referee Chip and sent Judge Brown to the city. Mr. Boyle's secretary, Miss Mahoney also attended the bouts and everything as promised by the promoter went off like clockwork.

Minteer Wins Decision

The preliminary card was composed of local talent. Three of the four bouts ended via the kayo route. In the first prelim scheduled for four rounds, Roy Minteer of the South Side handed Billy Mido also of this city a licking. Minteer topped the beam at 114 while Mido weighed 116.

This bout was fast throughout with Minteer the aggressor most of the time. In the last round Rop opened up with a fast attack and in the latter part of the round landed three straight lefts in the face which had Mido hanging. The decision was awarded Minteer.

Banko Kayoes West

The second bout of the evening proved another fast affair which ended in a technical knockout in the fourth round. This bout was between Walter West, 130½ of the South Side and John Banko also of this city at 134 3-4. The end came in the fourth round when Banko landed flush with his right on West's jaw. West rolled to the canvas flat on his face.

He got up at nine but Referee Robinson stopped the fight to prevent West from receiving undue punishment. Banko received a technical knockout for his efforts.

Arnold Kayoes Badger

The third bout ended in a knockout in the first round. Lefty Arnold of this city disposed of Elmer Badger of New Castle in the initial round of a bout scheduled for six rounds. Lefty landed two pretty lefts to the face which floored Badger for a count of five. Another blow a left by Arnolds sent Badger again to the floor as George Chip, referee stopped the bout, giving Arnold a technical knockout.

Midway Scores Kayo

Arnold weighed 142 pounds and Badger scaled 148 1-4. The semi-final bout also carried for six rounds was another one round event with Midway the winner. Nick Adamo of this city a 162 pounder and Joe Midway also of this city who weighed 156 3-4 were the principles in the semi-final bout. Shortly after the bout started Midway landed a pretty right which floored Adamo for a count of nine. Another right on the jaw resulted in a knockout in favor of Midway.

Fewer Big Fires During Past Year

Total Loss, Compared With Preceding Year, Is Held Greater, However

While the total loss in New York by fire in 1930 is likely to be greater than the 1929 loss, there were only five fires with a loss exceeding $1,000,000 in 1930 as compared with fifteen in 1929 and twenty in 1928, according to the National Fire Protection Association, the professional society of fire protection engineers, which has completed a review of the largest and most disastrous fires of the past year.

Preliminary estimate's on the basis of losses reported to insurance companies place the 1930 fire loss at $465,000,000, approximately ten per cent greater than last year.

In view of reduced commodity costs during the past year the association states that it is quite likely that the actual loss in burned property, especially stocks and merchandise, may actually be considerably in excess of that indicated by the figures.

332 Families Made Homeless
The biggest fire of the year was the Nashua, N. H. conflagration of May 4, 1930, which destroyed more than 300 buildings, rendering 332 families homeless.

Other big fires which were almost of the proportions of general conflagrations were that which swept the business district of Gore, Va. on August 5, and that involving several mercantile buildings at Waukegan, Ill., on November 16.

While the largest number of big fires were in miscellaneous manufacturing plants, property at rail and water terminals suffered heavily. In March, 1930, for example, New Orleans wharf district suffered two fires less than ten days apart involving a total loss of over $3,600,000. Many lumber mills contributed heavy losses. Nearly all of these properties, according to the association, were poorly protected against fire. It states that in this respect rail and water terminals are notorious and may be expected each year to contribute a large share of the big fires.

Public Indifference Hit

That fires are by many people still looked upon as "Acts of God" is one of the principal reasons given for the neglect of prevention and protection which make these large fires possible. The other is the popular conception that fire losses are paid by the insurance companies, a conception which overlooks the fact that fire losses wherever they occur, must be assessed against property owners generally through fire insurance premiums. The result is indifference to fire prevention as people are willing to leave to the insurance companies what appears to be their own affair.

Sixty-five fires, involved losses so large (over one-quarter million dollars each) as to be classed as conflagration proportions. While the geographical distribution in general follows the known concentrations of burnable values, it is significant, the association points out, to note the considerable number which occurred at points where the property was situated beyond the limits of a municipal water supply or organized fire department.

Spying On Sports

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor

Those sport page gazers who like their athletic news garnished with plenty of denunciations, charges and counter-charges, and all the other political wranglings which go to enliven long evenings of perusal of the local gazettes are in for a big year.

The boxing situation has started off the year with enough warfare (outside the ropes, of course) that the heavyweight news alone seems to be a complete dramatic version of the Battle of Neuve Chappelle with full sound effects.

Bickering between the New York boxing commission and sundry purists and promoters has added no little to the gaiety of the occasion. The board having already suspended two world champions the sport page reader can look forward to plenty of war news before it is all over and quiet once more reigns along the pugilistic front.

Tennis Moguls Iterate

Considerable fussing also looms among the tennis boys although this time Big Bill Tilden, former stormy petrel of the game, is not a party of either part. Bill's given up his amateur status and never again will we see the spectacle of Tilden defying the world that is the tennis world as represented by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

The net war that is brewing has American tennis officials on one side and some of our European neighbors on the other. The Amer-visitors at Luna Park, Coney Island, were given the surprise of their lives one afternoon recently when they saw one of the largest elephants in captivity long a favorite with park fun-seekers, taking his first automobile ride atop one of the new Chrysler Eight sedans. This elephant ride is a feature of the Chrysler film that will be shown by the Chambers Motor Co. 825 North Croton avenue, New Castle, Pa., on Wednesday, January 21st at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30 and 8:30 p. m.

NEW YORK STOCKS

U. S. Steel Is Leader In Day's Market Action

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Railroad Steel and Utility stocks led the market into slightly higher level of prices in the early trading today. Expectation of further improvement in the steel industry, to be shown in the Iron Age's weekly survey tomorrow, and a reported increase in orders for new automobiles stimulated a better demand for leading stocks.

A number of the bears now hibernating in Southern resorts were said to be covering up on recent short sales, and "accumulation" was under way in other stocks which were fairly active on the tape. Stock sales in the first half-hour totaled only 148,000 shares. General Electric snapped back to 42½ after an early dip to a new low at 41½. President Gerard Swope, in a special release today, estimated the 1930 orders at 23 per cent under 1929, the last three months of last year showing a 32 per cent decline from the same period in the previous year. The decrease was due in part to the transfer of business to the Radio Corporation, jointly controlled by General Electric and Westinghouse.

Professional short covering in the second hour accounted for the steady rise of the active Industrials. U. S. Steel was a leader, with an advance of nearly 2 points to 140½. American Can moved up 1½ to 108½. Westinghouse rallied a point to 34½. Allied Chemical was up 3½. Katy led the speculative Ralls, with a 2-point rise to 26½. Bethlehem Steel at 47½ showed a gain of 1½.

Flood Of Bills In Early Session

Legislature Meets Before Opening Of Inauguration Program

MUSMANNO PUTS IN FIRST MEASURE

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Speaker C. Kay Goodnow dropped the gavel in the lower house promptly at 9:45 a. m. today and probably the earliest session of the 1931 session was under way.

Because of a resolution, the rules of the house were suspended permitting early opening today so as not to conflict with the inaugural ceremonies. When the morning prayer was concluded the speaker announced that bills would be introduced and then the house was at ease awaiting action of the senate.

Representative Musmanno, militant Allegheny county solon, went the honor of presenting the first bill to the newly convened house. Musmanno's measure provides for the repeal of the present industrial police law and for the appointment of "property guards."

A bill providing for a referendum relating to Pennsylvania "blue laws" was another introduced today by Rep. Musmanno. The bill provides for a ballot on Sunday amusements and would permit local authorities to enact ordinances accordingly.

Rep. Strickler, Lancaster, sponsored a bill today appropriating $2,000,000 for the motor fund to the state highway department for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Act of 1929 in assisting cities of the second class, second class A, and third class in paving thoroughfares which are a part of the state highway system.

Repeal of the direct inheritance tax law of 1919 is provided for in a bill introduced today by Rep. Baldrige, Allegheny.

Under the provisions of a bill introduced by Rep. Hoopes, Berks Socialist member, the state and employees would join in creating a fund for unemployment and after a week of unemployment a maximum of $25 and a minimum of $12 would be paid weekly until there is sufficient work to permit the employee to return to his duties.

Other bills introduced today included: Heffran, Washington, providing for state highway between Speers and Murray Mill, Washington county.

Riddle, Allegheny, providing for the bonding of burgesses.

Riddle, Allegheny, regulating the rates of wages paid to laborers and mechanics employed by the commonwealth so as to conform with wages in districts in which they are employed.

Barton, Fulton, fixing a fine of $100 for the killing of wild turkeys out of season.

Dunn, Allegheny, repealing Act of 1794 relating to the prevention of vice and immorality, and unlawful gaming and to restrain disorderly sports and dissipation.

FRICION IS APPARENT AS LEGISLATURE OPENS

Contest For Control Between Governor Pinchot And Opponents Very Evident

Political Expediency Governs Appointments Of Governor This Time

(From News Bureau) (State Capital)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—To paraphrase the cigarette ad, "what a waste of a difference a few years makes." Four years ago today John S. Fisher, native of Indiana, Pa., started his term as governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the machinery of government so smoothly oiled that there never was any question about its running without a squeak. His first session passed off as unclouded as a June morning and his second session was only a trifle less harmonious.

Today Gifford Pinchot, the Tall Forester from Pike County starts his second term as governor of Pennsylvania and before the clutch is in, one can hear ominous rumblings from under the hood. War and rumors of war, reprisals and rewards, and of rumors no end.

For the first time in a number of sessions there is a sharp diversion between the House and Senate. The House is admittedly in the control of the Governor and his forces, but the Senate for the time at least is in the hands of General Edward Martin, State Chairman, with Senator Augustus F. Daix, Jr., of Philadelphia in the chair as president pro tem. In the House the governor's friends and supporters are being rewarded with the choice committee chairmanships. In the Senate the governor's friends are being chairmanships and already the House members are talking reprisals when legislation starts through the hopper.

Gifford Pinchot is profiting by his mistakes of 1922. Then he appointed personal friends to high places, most of them competent but many of them babes in the woods politically. This time his appointments are being made with an eye to political reward along with efficiency, and those senators who voted against the governor's choice for president pro tem, Senator Mansfield of Allegheny, today find themselves in the position of explaining to their constituents why certain appointments were cut off. The most notable example of this is John Morrison, publisher of Greenville who was originally appointed to the Workman's Compensation Board by Pinchot in 1923, and continued by Governor Fisher. Senator Frank Fay of Greenville voted for Daix for president pro tem and Morrison has been dropped. Morrison was thought to be sure of retaining his place and probably would have been had it not been for Fay's actions.

No Lustre To Inaugural
The inauguration of Governor Pinchot lacks much of the lustre of previous inaugurations. On inauguration eve in previous years bands have paraded the streets, the hotels have been jammed with delegations from up state counties, and the whole affair took on the complexion of a Mardi Gras. This time there is little of the carnival spirit prevailing. Pinchot insisted that the appropriation for inauguration expenses be kept down to $3000 and you can't burn much red fire on $3000, after you have built a stand for the exercises.

Two years ago and four years ago the date of the adjournment of the session was set before the session opened. This time nobody knows when adjournment will take place. Governor Pinchot is said to be going to hold his administration bills back for some time hoping that the wearing down process will force the session to pass them in an effort to get out of Harrisburg before June 1st.

The House attempted to set the date of April 21st as adjournment, at the caucus, but the Senate refused to concur and Governor Pinchot turned thumbs down on the idea. All of which promises legislative session when the flowers bloom in the spring.

Eagles Club At Oil City May Get Nice New Padlock
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—The Eagles Lodge, 19 Center avenue, Oil City, was named in a bill of complaint filed by federal prohibition authorities in federal court here today asking an injunction and padlock for the premises.

The complaint was based on the alleged sale of reported illegal liquor to government agents in the club rooms.

You're the JUDGE
The Decision
The court held for Sunkle. The judges reasoned thus: True, according to the contract, Sunkle must have the certificate from the architect for his last payment, but it also was true that if the architect, either by fraud or mere caprice, refused the certificate Sunkle could recover without it. Here it seemed to have been for no reason at all or at least for no reason that the architect would give that he refused the certificate: So Sunkle could recover.

Too many people seem to think that self-determination was for individuals as well as States.

ITALY TO AID IN BUILDING RED FLEET

By W. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Soviet Russia will be assisted by Italy in building a new merchant fleet according to news received in London shipping circles.

This is the result of the Italo-Soviet understanding which European statesmen have been watching for some months past. The agreement was the main topic in the discussions between Signor Grandi and M. Litvinov recently.

In the first instance it is understood, ships will be constructed to the order of the Soviet Government in certain Italian yards. But Russian engineers and workers will be sent to these yards to be trained by Italian experts.

When these are considered to be sufficiently expert they will return to their own yards and start building there with the aid of new machinery purchased in Italy, and of a number of Italian specialists.

Italy is already doing work of a similar character, although on a very small scale, for the expansion of the Turkish merchant fleet.

California Timber Flourished In 1930

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 20.—While timber stands in other sections of the country suffered greatly from drought and heat during the past year, the California timber increment has increased notably, according to R. W. Ayer of the U. S. Forest Service here.

It is all recorded on the trees themselves, he says. The annual rings of wood that show on every ring-forming species are positive proof. In their broad new rings of wood under the bark, the trees in the federal forest areas of California show lush growth. In contrast trees throughout most other parts of the nation are marked by rudimentary rings which formed in the time of drought.

Forest fire losses in California also were decidedly lessened in the past year, Ayer says. This is due, he says, to improved methods of fire protection and fighting, better equipment, public aid and education and favorable weather.

Of the 19,000,000 acres of federal forest lands in California, but 34,922 acres were burned over as compared to 156,206 in 1929. Rains in the early autumn helped shorten the fire season Northern California, and there were no extended periods of hot, dry, windy weather during the summer of 1930, Ayer said.

Fish Bronze Head From Ancient Sea

(International News Service)
SALERNO, Italy, Jan. 20.—Out of the depths of the sea a marvelous bronze head has been fished. Throwing their nets for fish some sailors found that they had got weight; and pulled out something very heavy that they thought to be scrap iron.

Instead it turned out to be an Apollo head, of rare beauty; the face is slightly bowed in front and the profile is enhanced by the graceful line of locks which reach the chin and fall on the shoulders at back.

The find has now been placed in the local museum. It is very likely a Greek original or an excellent Roman copy, which was decorating either some rich villa of the Sybarite Colony of Poseidon or one of its temples.

Lawrence-Beaver Counties May Be In New District

Changes In Congressional Districts May Place Butler In Another District

Loss of two members of the house of representatives by the state of Pennsylvania as a result of the 1930 census will necessitate the redistricting of the congressional districts of the state and these changes will affect Lawrence county and 26th congressional district of which it is now a part.

The process of readjusting the districts is not an easy one. This will be done by the state legislature at its present session. Experts have been figuring out the problem as best they can. The redistricting will necessitate consideration of rapidly growing sections and the consolidating of districts in sections which have not kept pace with the general population growth. That there will be objections raised to any plan is evident.

The change suggested would place Beaver and Lawrence county in a congressional district, eliminating Butler from the association of some years past in the 26th district. Under the proposed change, the district will become the 27th congressional district and will have a population of 246,320.

Butler county would, under the proposed change, become a part of the 28th congressional district and be associated with Clarion, Forest, Mercer and Venango counties. The population of this district would be 222,693.

Further Testimony Is Taken Today In Mix's Damage Suit

Zach T. Miller, Circus Owner
Occupies Stand To Tell Of Salary Transaction

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Further testimony in the damage suit brought against Tom Mix, cowboy actor, by Zach T. Miller, president of Western Shows, Inc., for an alleged breach of contract was taken today as the trial entered the second day's sessions.
Miller seeks to recover $345,000 from the movie idol who turned the courtroom into a near circus when hundreds of admirers shouted and stamped their approval when Mix's attorneys scored against the plaintiff.
The circus owner, testifying on the stand for more than four hours, claimed that an exchange of telegrams between himself and Mix led to a conference at Philadelphia where the contract was concluded.
After haggling over salary, the matter was finally settled, Miller testified, when Mix agreed to accept $10,000 a week and expenses. "We shook hands," Miller said. "And Mix told me his hand was as good as his word."
Miller told the court that Mix refused to live up to the terms of the alleged contract after his appearances with the 101 Ranch had been given wide publicity. He remained firm in the face of a vigorous cross-examination by the cowboy's attorneys and denied that Mix had requested him to "hold up on the publicity until we can reach an amicable agreement."

Some Specialists In Excess Fat Make Thousands Thin Since this new discovery

In old days, doctors were not often consulted in obesity. People simply assumed that excess fat meant too much food, too little exercise. They feared the doctor would prescribe starvation.
Now that has changed. Science has discovered that a spongy gland secretion is a great cause of excess fat. Doctors the world over know how to correct it. And some of them are telling thousands the way to normal figures.
The factor they use is employed in Marmola prescription tablets. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Thus anyone can now deal with obesity in the right way at small cost. This way supplies a lacking factor which largely controls nutrition. It helps turn food into fuel and energy when too much goes to fat. No help in all medicine is more widely accepted today.
Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others about it, and the use has spread. Now you can see its results in every circle. Excess fat has been fast disappearing. Slender figures are everywhere the vogue.
Now excess fat is folly. It takes so little to correct it. No abnormal exercise or diet. Combat the gland cause. Think what the results will mean in beauty, health and vim.
All druggists supply Marmola at $1. A book in each box gives the formula and explains the reasons for results. It means doing what doctors do, instead of something harmful or absurd. Go start today.
